On the Cover

A message board is pictured in Peckham, south-east London, on August 12, 2011, established by a local theatre company after the recent riots and looting in the area. British Prime Minister David Cameron says the riots which have scarred England were motivated by pure criminality, but opposition politicians and academics say they also point to social deprivation. # About APSA

Founded in 1903, the American Political Science Association is the leading professional organization for the study of political science and serves more than 15,000 members in over 80 countries. With a range of programs and services for individuals, departments, and institutions, APSA brings together political scientists from all fields of inquiry, regions, and occupational endeavors within and outside academe in order to expand awareness and understanding of politics.

The direct advancement of knowledge is at the core of APSA activities. We promote scholarly communication in political science through a variety of initiatives including publishing three distinguished journals: American Political Science Review, Perspectives on Politics, and PS: Political Science and Politics.

Teach About Asia

Learn About Asia

Education About Asia

A unique and innovative magazine, Education About Asia is a practical teaching resource for secondary school, college, and university instructors, as well as an invaluable source of information for all students who have an interest in Asia. To review subscription information, the table of contents for all issues, selected articles, as well as information on the Association for Asian Studies, please visit www.asian-studies.org.

FOCUS ON ASIA: JAPAN'S DEMOCRACY two-part series (spring and winter 2011)

Government and political science instructors who want to improve their student's understanding of democratic government and encourage global perspectives on civic literacy can effectively utilize the study of Japan, Asia's oldest democracy, in their classrooms. The spring and winter 2011 issues of Education About Asia will include a two-part "Focus on Asia: Japan's Democracy" series. "Japan's Democracy" will offer feature articles and resource essays that should provide instructors illumination about a variety of aspects of Japanese democracy. Much of the content will also include a US-Japan comparative focus.

Ethics & International Affairs aims to help close the gap between theory and practice (and between theorists and practitioners) by publishing original essays that integrate rigorous thinking about principles of justice and morality into discussions of practical dilemmas related to current policy developments, global institutional arrangements, and the conduct of important international actors. Theoretical discussions that originate in philosophy, religion, or the social sciences should connect with the interests of journalists, activists, policy-makers, and citizens who are primarily concerned with assessing and reforming specific policies, as well as existing rules and institutions such as the United Nations, the World Bank, and the International Monetary Fund; arrangements governing trade, environmental protection, and the use of force; and the International Criminal Court and ad hoc tribunals that address genocide and past societal injustices.
