The Blanton Museum of Art is one of the foremost university art museums in the country and the leading art museum serving Austin and Central Texas. The Blanton's permanent collection of more than 17,000 works is recognized for its Old Master paintings, modern and contemporary American and Latin American art, and an encyclopedic collection of prints and drawings. As the only art museum in Austin with a permanent collection of substantial range and depth, the Blanton serves multiple audiences, offering a wide range of special exhibitions and public programs while developing teaching, research, and educational initiatives. As the art museum of The University of Texas at Austin, a flagship institution of higher learning in Texas, the Blanton enriches the cultural life of the state. In April 2006 the Blanton entered a new era in its new home, which brings the museum's collections, programs, and visitor amenities together under one roof for the first time.
