Editorial Policy: The Journal of Social Policy welcomes scholarly papers which analyse any aspect of social policy and administration. In particular, it seeks to encourage contributions which integrate conceptual or theoretical ideas with the use of empirical evidence. Its scope is both international and comparative, and it draws on research and developments in all of the social sciences.

EDITOR'S NOTE

This issue of the Journal is shorter than had been planned. This is because one article has been withdrawn following receipt of a threat of legal action. The threat was received at an advanced stage in the production schedule, and it was not possible to include a replacement article in the time available.
