The Philosopher in the City

The Moral Dimensions of Urban Politics

HADLEY ARKES

This provocative work, not only shows us how far we have drifted from the classical understanding of the city as a moral community; it also challenges many of the basic liberal assumptions about the relations of law, morals, and politics. Cloth, £19.40. Paper, £5.00

Industrialization and Urbanization

Edited by THEODORE RABB and ROBERT ROTBERG

Focusing on urban development and the influence of urbanization on industrialization, this volume reflects a radical rethinking of the traditional approaches to the development of cities.

Studies in Interdisciplinary History Cloth, £14.30. Paper, £4.30

The American Law of Slavery, 1810-1860

Considerations of Humanity and Interest

MARK V. TUSHNET

Focusing on a wide range of issues that include contract and accident law as well as criminal law and the law of manumission, Mark Tushnet shows how Southern law had to respond to the competing pressures of concern for the slave's humanity and the capitalist's economic interest in the worker's labor power. Cloth, £14.30. Limited Paperback Edition, £6.75

DDT

Scientists, Citizens, and Public Policy

THOMAS R. DUNLAP

Thomas Dunlap places the controversy over DDT in historical perspective and provides a case study of the involvement of scientists, citizens, and various environmentalist groups in the formation of public policy in pesticide residues. £13.10

Racial Inequality

A Political-Economic Analysis

MICHAEL REICH

In an investigation of the effects of racism on the American economy, Michael Reich evaluates the leading economic theories of radical inequality and presents the new theory that discrimination against blacks increases inequality of income among whites. Cloth, £16.00. Paper, £5.00

Witnesses to a Vanishing America

The Nineteenth-Century Response

LEE CLARK MITCHELL

Drawing on a wide variety of evidence, Lee Clark Mitchell portrays the growing apprehensions among many 19th-century Americans about the toll exacted by "progress." £13.00

SOCIAL ADMINISTRATION ASSOCIATION

The Association exists for those whose work consists mainly of teaching or research in the fields of Social Administration and Social Policy. It was formed some years ago to enable staff from universities, polytechnics, technical and other colleges, independent and Government research organisations to meet and discuss matters of common interest.

The Association acts as a representative of its members and of Social Administration through contacts with the Social Science Research Council, the Council for National Academic Awards and the Business Education Council.

The Association has specialist groups which meet to discuss the teaching of social policy and public expenditure and social policy.

The Association holds an Annual Conference. The 1982 conference will be from 13th to 15th July in Leeds. The theme will be 'Politics and Social Policy'.

The current membership subscription is £21.50 per calendar year; this includes the subscription to the Association's Journal, the Journal of Social Policy (four issues per year).

Journal of Public Policy

Editor: BRIAN W. HOGWOOD

Centre for the Study of Public Policy, University of Strathclyde

The Journal of Public Policy publishes articles that use concepts derived from any of the social sciences to illuminate a significant problem facing contemporary government. Articles which cross the conventional boundaries between the social sciences are particularly welcome. Authors are expected to make clear under what circumstances and to what extent the findings are or are not generalizable to other policy areas, or to the same policy problem in other countries. In addition to articles, the journal publishes critical analyses of ideas currently in vogue among academics or practitioners of public policy, reviews of research published by governments or international bodies, and reviews of books about public policy which are interdisciplinary, either explicitly or in terms of their potential implications for other disciplines.

Metropolitan London Politics and Urban Change 1837–1981

Ken Young and Patricia Garside

Studies in Urban History No 6

The resurgence of interest in urban history has many of its roots in the study of London. Victorian London enjoyed a unique status as the metropolitan area: a city of unprecedented size and complexity, posing problems and requiring policies of a quite new kind. London was a pioneer city, in world terms, not just British; and in some senses it has remained so.

Metropolitan London offers the first full-length account of the political, economic, and conceptual aspects of London's metropolitan history, and is based on hitherto unexplored sources.

State Pensions in Britain

JOHN CREEDY

This book uses data provided by the DHSS to consider the relationship between pensions and contributions in different types of pension schemes and their redistributive effects. The author concludes that the new state scheme, introduced in 1978, seems to reflect a considerable amount of compromise and that it, like its predecessors, may well be short-lived. £10.50 net

Social Experimentation and Economic Policy

The late ROBERT FERBER and WERNER Z. HIRSCH

This volume considers the advantages and disadvantages of social experimentation relative to other means of evaluating economic and social policies. The main part of the book provides a review and a critical evaluation of the principal social experiments in economics carried out so far in the USA, where this method has been used very extensively.

Estimating the Effects of Social Interventions

CHARLES M. JUDD and DAVID A. KENNY

Efforts to improve the welfare of individuals and society are continually subject to evaluation. This book offers a comprehensive introduction to methods for measuring the impact of social interventions. The authors discuss the strengths and weaknesses of various research designs and review statistical procedures for analysing data.

Caring for Mentally Ill People

Psychological and Social Barriers in Historical Context

ALEXANDER H. LEIGHTON

In this volume a distinguished social psychiatrist reflects on the history of efforts to prevent and treat mental health in a rapidly changing North America. Professor Leighton's thesis – that new efforts conflict with, and are dissipated by, constant barriers – is illustrated by an analysis of the first twenty-one years of a community mental health centre that he helped to found in 1950.

CRITICAL SOCIAL POLICY

Critical Social Policy is a new journal which will serve as a forum to encourage and develop an understanding of social policy from radical, feminist and socialist perspectives. The only collective editorial policy is a common opposition to the radical right and an awareness of the inadequacies of orthodox theories of welfare to meet its challenges. Within this project we wish to encourage contributions from a plurality of perspectives. Our priority is to develop a debate about political strategies and we will develop a format which will appeal to a varied audience of academics, practitioners and activists. It is intended that the journal will be international in its content and audience.

Notes for Contributors

1. All contributions and correspondence should be sent to: The Editor, Journal of Social Policy, PSSRU, Cornwallis Building, The University, Canterbury, Kent, CT2 7NF. All books for review should be sent to: The Review Editor, Journal of Social Policy, Department of Sociology and Social Administration, University of Southampton, Highfield, Southampton SO9 5NH.
2. Articles should generally contain between 5,000 and 10,000 words including footnotes, although longer or shorter articles may be accepted by arrangement with the editor. Short articles stand a better chance of early publication.
3. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere. If an author is publishing a related article elsewhere, this fact should be stated.
4. Contributions (articles, review articles, reviews) should be clearly typed on one side of the paper only using a conventional size of paper, preferably A4. All material should be typed double-spaced with generous margins. Contributors should send two copies and keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
5. Contributions should be accompanied by an abstract of between one and two hundred words, and a title page providing information about the position/s held by the author/s and giving full details of any acknowledgements.
6. Manuscripts will not be accepted for publication unless they conform to the usual journal style. Contributors are advised to look at the latest issue of the journal for general guidance, although a brief style sheet is available from the editor upon request. Particular attention should be made to the journal requirements about references and tables.
7. Notes should not contain bibliographical references: these should be built into the text and the Harvard (author/date) system used. Such notes as are essential should be referred to in numerical order throughout the text and the numbers shown as superscript. Notes and bibliographical references should be typed (double-spaced) as separate sections at the end of the article.
8. Tables should be clearly laid out and designed to fit on to a page 234 mm × 155 mm. Vertical lines between columns should be omitted, and horizontal lines limited to the top and bottom of the table, with an additional one below the column headings. Totals and percentages should be labelled, and units identified.
9. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the editor, by airmail where appropriate, within seven days of receiving them. The master proof will always be sent direct to the editor by the printer; contributors will receive duplicates.
10. Authors of articles and review articles (but not book reviews) receive twenty-five free offprints. Additional copies may be bought if ordered at proof stage.
11. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
