

its innervation is via the geniculate ganglion, great superficial petrosal nerve and sphenopalatine ganglion.

The narration of this case forms the basis for a speculative discussion on the ætiology of the condition in this instance, and in others of a similar nature with the usual review of the literature available to the author on the subject.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE INTRANASAL OPERATIVE TREATMENT OF FRONTAL SINUS SUPPURATION.

To the Editor of THE JOURNAL OF LARYNGOLOGY, RHINOLOGY, AND OTOTOLOGY.

SIR,—May I draw attention to the absence of a description in the Official Reports of the demonstration on my intranasal methods, which I gave on August 11, 1913, at the International Congress of Medicine in London, in accordance with the official programme of the Laryngological Section.

The operation by "anterior entry," which I described and illustrated in the JOURNAL OF LARYNGOLOGY, RHINOLOGY, AND OTOTOLOGY, May, 1914, covers the ground of my demonstration at the International Congress; while a more recent demonstration, which I had the privilege of giving in the Laryngological Section of the British Medical Association Meeting at Aberdeen last July, is substantially the same, and hence hardly merits any further extended note in your reports of the proceedings of that meeting.

I have the honour to remain,

Yours faithfully,

September, 1914.

P. WATSON-WILLIAMS.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

COCAINE AND ADRENALIN DURING THE WAR.

We are obliged to Messrs. Duncan, Flockhart & Co., and to Messrs. Parke, Davis & Co. for the following information.

Cocaine.—The price of cocaine in England has advanced since the war broke out from 10s. to 15s. an ounce. This rise is chiefly due to the fact that the British Government has been purchasing large quantities of the drug. Cocaine is made from the coca leaf, which is cultivated in British India, Java, and South America, and supplies are expected shortly which will probably reduce the price of the drug. But a reduction to the figure prevailing prior to the outbreak of the war is highly improbable.

With regard to the synthetic local anæsthetics such as Novocaine, Eucaine, etc., the stocks in England are sufficient to meet all ordinary demands. Consequently, the price of these articles has risen but slightly. Although hitherto largely prepared abroad, steps have already been taken to manufacture them in England for the future.

The price of the suprarenal gland extracts (adrenalin, supra-renin, etc.) has not so far been affected by the war.

By W. G. PORTER, M.B., B.Sc., F.R.C.S.Ed.,

Surgeon to the Eye, Ear, and Throat Infirmary, Edinburgh; Surgeon, Ear and Throat Department, Royal Hospital for Sick Children, Edinburgh; Aurist to the Edinburgh Royal Institution for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb.

"The author's main object has been to provide the practitioner and serious student with a single volume of moderate size, embracing sufficient information on the diseases of the throat, nose, and ear, to be of value in practice. We may say at once that he has attained his object."—British Medical Journal.

"Eminently suited to the purpose for which it is designed."—Journal of Laryngology.

"The several diseases are concisely dealt with. . . . The book as a whole reflects sound teaching, and recent literature has evidently been laid under contribution. It is well printed and well illustrated."—Lancet.

"The work is eminently suited to the purpose for which it has been designed. . . . a large amount of well-digested and accurate information has been packed into a surprisingly small compass. Special attention has been given to diagnosis, and to such treatment as can be carried out successfully by one who is not a specialist. . . . We congratulate Dr. Porter upon producing a very excellent small manual."—Practitioner.

MAYER & MELTZER

Wish to state that all the instruments listed in their Catalogues, with very few exceptions, are and always have been made in their own London Workshops, so that they can offer customers their usual service without any rise in price for such goods. In sundry lines, such as glass and enamelled ware, the manufacturers have advanced their prices, so that these must necessarily be raised in proportion. It is perhaps unnecessary to state that partners, capital and staff are entirely British.
