Tantra in Practice

Edited by David Gordon White

The selections collected here reflect the wide geographical and temporal scope of Tantra, with thirty-six texts from China, India, Japan, Nepal, and Tibet, ranging from the seventh century to the present day, and representing the full range of Tantric experience—Buddhist, Hindu, Jain, and even Islamic.

Each text has been chosen and translated, often for the first time, by an international expert in the field who also provides detailed background material. Students of Asian religions and general readers alike will find the book to be intriguing and informative.

Bodies of Memory

Narratives of War in Postwar Japanese Culture, 1945–1970

Yoshikuni Igarashi

Japan and the United States became close political allies so quickly after the end of World War II, that it seemed as though the two countries had easily forgotten the war they had fought. Here Yoshikuni Igarashi offers a provocative look at how Japanese postwar society struggled to understand its war loss and the resulting national trauma, even as forces within the society sought to suppress these memories.

“This is history writing at its best. . . . Bodies of Memory provides a powerful explanation as to why so many in Japan refuse to accept Japan’s modern history in Asia.”—Miriam Silverberg, University of California, Los Angeles

Civil Islam

Muslims and Democratization in Indonesia

Robert W. Hefner

Civil Islam tells the story of Islam and democratization in Indonesia, the world’s largest Muslim nation. Challenging stereotypes of Islam as antagonistic to democracy, this study of courage and reformation in the face of state terror suggests possibilities for democracy in the Muslim world and beyond.

“[This] superb book should transform our understanding of Indonesia, of Islam, and of the nature of democratization in a plural world.”

—Anthony Reid, University of California, Los Angeles
