The Contributors

John H. Herz is Professor of International Law and Relations at Howard University. From 1943 to 1948 he served with the Office of Strategic Services and the Department of State.

Edward Mead Earle is Professor in the School of Historical Studies in the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton. In the spring of 1950 he will be Chichele lecturer at the University of Oxford. His contribution will also appear in extended form in Nationalism and Internationalism, to be published by the Columbia University Press.

Richard Hartshorne is Professor of Geography at the University of Wisconsin. During the war he served as Assistant Chief of the Research and Analysis Branch in the Office of Strategic Services.

Karl J. Pelzer is Associate Professor of Geography at Yale University. He was a member of the U. S. Commercial Company Economic Survey of Micronesia in 1946.

Sidney F. Giffin, colonel in the U. S. Air Force, has had several assignments of politico-military character and is currently a student at the National War College in Washington.

Gabriel A. Almond is a Research Associate in the Yale Institute of International Studies and is the author of a book now in press entitled The American People and Foreign Policy.

Percy E. Corbett is Professor of Government and Jurisprudence at Yale University and was formerly Dean of the Law School at McGill University.

Leo Paswolsky is Director of the International Studies Group of The Brookings Institution. During the war he was Special Assistant to the Secretary of State.

Correction: In the October issue of WORLD POLITICS Mr. Horst Mendershausen was listed under The Contributors as an economist of the Federal Reserve Board. He is an economist of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.
