University of Manchester*

EDWARD ULLENDORFF

Professor of Semitic Languages and Literatures in the University of Manchester

P. R. WEIS

Nathan Laski Reader in Post-Biblical Jewish Studies in the University of Manchester

The Journal interprets Semitic Studies in the broadest sense and includes articles and reviews of linguistic, literary, historical, archaeological, legal, philosophical, and anthropological interest. Semitic Languages, Islamica, Post-Biblical Jewish Studies, and kindred fields are within the scope of the journal.

Leading scholars have contributed to the Journal of Semitic Studies during the distinguished editorship of Professor H. H. Rowley. The current and future numbers include H. J. Polotsky's eagerly awaited "Studies in Modern Syriac", as well as articles by D. Winton Thomas (on "The sixth century B.C.: A creative epoch in the history of Israel"), James Robson on Islamic tradition, H. B. Rosen on the tenses in the Aramaic of Daniel, W. Leslau on the names of the weekdays in Ethiopic, J. B. Segal on the Calendar and Festivals in Israel, etc.

Contributions have also been promised by W. F. Albright, J. A. Boyle, E. Cerulli, G. R. Driver, and other distinguished scholars.

A Dravidian Etymological Dictionary

Compiled by T. BURROW
and M. B. EMENEAU

The first work of its kind that has been attempted, this book is a complete and systematic record of the whole available Dravidian vocabulary. It covers four major literary languages and some fourteen minor languages, excluding loans from Indo-Aryan. Etymologically arranged, much of the material is published here for the first time. The vocabulary is classified into 4,572 numbered items, and complete indexes for each language follow. £6 6s net

Discoveries in the Judæan Desert

Volume II: Les Grottes de Murabba'at

P. BENOIT, O.P., J. T. MILIK
and R. DE VAUX, O.P.

This volume, which is in two parts, text and plates, is written almost entirely in French, and contains texts and fragments found in 1952 in the caves of Wadi Murabba'at which are in Greek, Latin, and Arabic as well as Hebrew and Aramaic. The principal biblical texts consist of fragments of Isaiah and the Pentateuch; the secular works are important for the history of the second Jewish revolt against Rome. There is also a complete phylactery. £8 8s net

Ottoman Documents on Palestine 1552—1615

*A Study of the Firman
according to the Mühimme Defteri*

URIEL HEYD

The documents presented here have been collected mainly from the important Mühimme Defteri in the Turkish State Archives at Istanbul. They deal with many problems administrative, economic and social, and throw new light on the prevailing conditions, and on Ottoman provincial administration in general. Illustrated 35s net

Independent Iraq 1932—1958

A Study in Iraqi Politics

MAJID KHADDURI

'Professor Khadduri confirms his status as a careful and truth-seeking historian and analyst, and his work, based largely on personal researches in high political circles of his own country, will retain its value both as a meticulous and readable record and as a source-book helpful to later writers.'

The Emancipation of French Indochina

DONALD LANCASTER

This is the story of the long French struggle in Indochina (1946–1954) against the Communist-backed Viet Minh regime. It also includes an appraisal of French stewardship over the region, and introductory chapters on the history of the states of Laos, Cambodia, and Annam, and the events which led up to the establishment of French suzerainty in the nineteenth century. Chatham House 45s net

On The Red Chamber Dream

*A Critical Study of Two Annotated Manuscripts of the
XVIII Century*

WU SHIH-CH'ANG

A comprehensive and exhaustive study of problems raised in connexion with the authorship, dating, background, and annotation of the most popular and possibly the most important work in Chinese literature. 63s net
