- New drugs and treatments
- Litigation
- New products
- Current controversies

The EMS INSIDER is your source for coverage of critical issues—issues that are evolving and dynamic, and that will dramatically affect the EMS industry. The staff of the EMS INSIDER reviews hundreds of reports and documents each month and interviews dozens of people to bring you the fastest-breaking news on a wide range of topics. We carefully check all information, and only print the most vital stories with the most immediate, universal use.

It's hard for busy managers to find time to read everything they'd like. The EMS INSIDER does it for you—then presents the information you need to keep up-to-date and informed.

You'll find articles about techniques that work like magic and innovations that went wrong. Read about legislation that can mean big benefits for ambulance services—and lawsuits that have put others out of business. When a controversy is brewing, we'll have a complete report. And as new drugs are successfully tested, we'll let you know when to expect to have access to them.

The information you get in the EMS INSIDER is often unavailable anywhere else. The stories we research so aggressively today are the stories that will shape EMS tomorrow. We think you deserve to know.

It's up to you. The news and issues of EMS are developing even as you read this.

Why wait? It's easy and inexpensive to get your own subscription started now. With the EMS INSIDER you'll get the best information as soon as it's available.

EVEN THE RIVERS MEET HERE.

Everything's coming together in Pittsburgh. The skies are blue. The subway's new. Restaurants are popping up. Theaters are cropping up. Nights spots are hopping. There's just no stopping.

No wonder Rand McNally named us the number one most livable city. The National Association of EMS Physicians is proud to bring its annual meeting "home" for all members to see why western Pennsylvanians say, Pittsburgh is Someplace Special.
