TWO RECENT PIANO CONCERTOS

Arthur Benjamin

CONCERTO QUASI UNA FANTASIA

FOR PIANO AND ORCHESTRA

2.2.2.2. — 4.2.3.1. — Timp., Perc., Strings. Duration 25 mins.

“The composer has described it as ‘quite frankly written to give the soloist an opportunity to show off.’ It is certainly this—and more as well, for the rhetoric is inventive and warm-hearted. The opening gesture makes a splendid effect; the three linked movements form a successful design; and the difficult but not crabbed solo part speaks of a musician intimately versed in the resources of the instrument.”

—DAILY TELEGRAPH

“Although rightly called a fantasia, this is a compact work. It is well stocked with interesting ideas expressed in attractive music that develops logically and never too lengthily.”

—NEWS CHRONICLE

“It deserves to be a popular piece. The piano part is all that a virtuoso pianist could desire.”

—MANCHESTER GUARDIAN

Reduction for two pianos 17/6. Score and parts for hire.

CONCERTO FOR PIANO AND STRING ORCHESTRA

Duration 25 mins.

“There is a place in the world for music so easy on the ear and so elegantly written as this.”

—NEW STATESMAN AND NATION

“The audience made it clear it would welcome re-hearings, which the work unquestionably deserves.”

—DAILY TELEGRAPH

“It is a lovely and thoughtful work. . . . which should surely be in demand.”

—NEWS CHRONICLE

“There is certainly a place in the repertory for this pleasing, unpretentious concerto which calls for no transcendental technique from either soloist or string players. . . . Amateur string bodies should consider this concerto.”

—MUSICAL TIMES

Reduction for two pianos 10/-. Score and parts for hire.
