The Ritual Process

Structure and Anti-Structure

VICTOR W. TURNER

Professor Turner regards ritual as a social mechanism for approaching real social problems and demonstrates how the analysis of ritual behaviour may be used as a key to understanding social structure and processes. He begins with an examination of women's rituals of the Ndembu in Central Africa, and continues with a more general consideration of ritual processes.

IRIS ANDRESKI

This is a collection of autobiographies told by women of the 'Iban Isong' generation—the Daughters of the Land, who have lived under conditions little changed from those of their ancestors. In the introduction Iris Andreski describes the historical and geographical background and examines the myths which have grown up around these complex people. 35s
