

AMERICAN QUARTERLY

Gary Kulik, Editor

Smithsonian Institution

Bernard Mergen, Associate Editor

George Washington University

As the official publication of the American Studies Association, the AMERICAN QUARTERLY serves as a guide to the culture of the United States. The journal promotes a broad humanistic understanding of American culture, encourages scholars from diverse disciplines to exchange ideas on America, and examines the ways American life relates to world society. Recent issues have explored war, theory and practice of material culture, and American modernism.

The Man Who Was Mark Twain

Images and Ideologies

Guy Cardwell

No writer has been more frequently identified with America than Mark Twain, an emblematic figure often supposed to represent the essential qualities that make America most admirably American. This fresh appraisal, supported by evidence from both the life and the writings, revises our images of this cultural icon, as an exceptionally complex man who experienced debilitating tensions and neuroses. June 272pp. 10 illus. £18.95

Down from the Mountaintop

Black Women's Novels in the Wake of the Civil Rights Movement, 1966-1989

Melissa Walker

In the years since the climactic passage of the Civil Rights Act, African-American women such as Alice Walker & Toni Morrison have contemplated the struggle for racial justice in an outpouring of significant novels. This eloquent book offers fresh readings of eighteen of these novels, examining how they relate to the movement, to the conditions that fostered it, and to its failure to achieve educational, economic, and social equality. 248 pp. £16.95

The Painting and Politics of George Caleb Bingham

Nancy Rash

George Caleb Bingham, one of the foremost American genre painters of the nineteenth century, was also a keen participant in Missouri politics. Among other political activities, Bingham painted Whig banners and was elected a Whig member of the Missouri state legislature. This unique book provides a new and original reading of the artist's most important works set within the framework of his political career and writings. 320 pp. 69 black-and-white illus. £25.00

Esthetic Recognition of Ancient Amerindian Art

George Kubler

In this book, one of the pioneering thinkers in the history of Pre-Columbian Art investigates the varying esthetic responses of native Americans, Europeans and Americanists to indigenous art of the Americas, through the lives and writings of historians, explorers, missionaries, archaeologists, anthropologists and art historians who lived between 1492 and 1984. 296 pp. 47 black-and-white illus. £22.50

A Woman Making History

Mary Ritter Beard Through Her Letters
edited and with an introduction by Nancy F. Cott

Historian, social reformer, and women's suffrage campaigner, Mary Ritter Beard (1876-1958) was one of the most prominent intellectuals of her day. This collection of her letters, edited and introduced by Nancy F. Cott, offers in effect an intellectual biography — a uniquely vital portrait that gives Beard the recognition she is due. 380pp. £25.00

Literacy in the United States

Readers and Reading since 1880

Carl F. Kaestle et al

The United States is at a crucial moment in the history of literacy, a time when how well Americans read is the subject of newspaper headlines. In this insightful book, Carl F. Kaestle and his colleagues shed new light on this issue, providing a social history of literacy and considering who was reading what, under what circumstances, and for what purposes. June 352pp. 16 line drawings £25.00

American Intellectuals and African Nationalists, 1955-1970

Martin Staniland

American academics and journalists "discovered" Africa in the 1950s and 1960s, when its colonial empires collapsed and more than forty new states were established. This book explores the different ways that American opinion makers from conservative, liberal, Marxist, and African-American journals reacted to events in Africa during these years, and how they interpreted African nationalism and self-government. July 320pp. £18.95

Blacks in the White Establishment?

A Study of Race and Class in America

Richard L. Zveigenhaft and G. William Domhoff

This sensitive and engrossing book reports on the early graduates of A Better Chance — a programme designed to recruit and prepare black students for entry into exclusive educational establishments, and ultimately positions of power and prestige. It provides a vivid testimony to the costs and the rewards of this innovative attempt to transcend racial barriers. 208pp. £18.95

Sugarball

The American Game, the Dominican Dream · Alan M. Klein

In the Dominican Republic baseball is not only a game but a national obsession, and a crucial arena of intercultural relations. Sugarball describes how Dominican baseball fosters national pride and competition with the United States while at the same time promoting acceptance of the North American presence in the country.

The making of US foreign policy

JOHN DUMBRELL

with a chapter by David Barrett

Through both original case-studies and assessments of the enormous secondary literature, John Dumbrell examines the way in which major foreign policy-making institutions operate, and the degree to which they are democratically accountable. He also addresses the implications of America's relative international decline, and the problems of US foreign policy adjustments in the post-Cold War era.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

- 1 All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to: The Editor, Journal of American Studies, School of English and American Studies, University of Sussex, Falmer, Brighton, BN1 9QN, England.
- 2 Articles should generally contain about 5,000 words. Longer or shorter articles, or articles in two or more parts, may be accepted by arrangement with the Editors.
- 3 Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, and is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
- 4 Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing (including footnotes), preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. Diagrams, maps and illustrations may be included.
- 5 Spelling may conform either to British or American usage, providing it is consistent throughout.
- 6 Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered consecutively, and may most conveniently be placed, in double spacing, at the end of the article.
- 7 For guidance on matters of style, contributors should refer either to The Chicago Manual of Style (13th edition, 1982) or to the Journal of American Studies Style Notes, copies of which may be obtained from the Editors.
- 8 Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
- 9 Notes intended for the Editors or Printer should be on a separate sheet.
- 10 First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within three days of receiving them.
- 11 Corrections should be kept to an absolute minimum. They should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorizes otherwise.
- 12 Contributors of articles and review essays receive 25 free offprints. Extra copies may be ordered according to a scale of charges.
- 13 Contributors need not be members of the British Association for American Studies. Unsolicited typescripts can only be returned to overseas contributors who send International Reply Coupons (not postage stamps).
- 14 Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.

Books for review should be sent as follows: History, Political Science and Social Studies to Dr Michael Heale, Department of History, Furness College, University of Lancaster, Bailrigg, Lancaster LA1 4YG.
