REVOLUTIONARY POLITICS AND THE CUBAN WORKING CLASS

By Maurice Zeitlin

Mr. Zeitlin was in Cuba during the summer of 1962 and conducted a series of in-depth interviews with Cuban workers. His book speaks to such questions as: How did workers react to the revolution? What influence did variations in age, skill, race, mobility, economic security, and size of plant have on the attitudes and behavior of workers? What kinds of political behavior can be anticipated in the future among workers in times of revolutionary social change?

POLITICAL PROTEST IN THE CONGO

The Parti Solidaire Africain During the Struggle for Independence

By Herbert Weiss

Drawing upon personal observations as well as official documents, Mr. Weiss describes the growth of political parties in the Congo, presents the first detailed history of the PSA, discusses the evolution of anti-colonial protest in the Kwango-Kwilu area of the Congo, and concludes with the relation of the PSA to anti-colonial protest in other parts of Africa.

AFFLUENCE AND THE FRENCH WORKER IN THE FOURTH REPUBLIC

By Richard F. Hamilton

The basic concern of the author is to find the reason for the persistent leftist character of French working-class politics in a period of rapid industrialization and improving living standards. Reanalyzing material from surveys made by two French organizations, he finds that increased affluence is correlated with changes in social structure that increase radicalism. Published for the Center of International Studies, Princeton University.
