. . . is designed to fill the need for a periodical in which philosophers with different viewpoints and philosophically inclined writers from various disciplines—including law, political science, economics, and sociology—can bring their distinctive methods to bear on problems of public concern.

"Ethicists worry about real-life issues rather than concepts and publish along with lawyers in Philosophy & Public Affairs which . . . has become the leading journal in moral philosophy."

—Peter Gibbons,

PHILOSOPHY OF THE SOCIAL SCIENCES is an international quarterly which publishes articles, discussions, symposia, literature surveys, translations, and review symposia of interest both to philosophers concerned with the social sciences and to social scientists concerned with the philosophical foundations of their subject. PHILOSOPHY OF THE SOCIAL SCIENCES intends its focus of interest to be those issues normally considered central to the philosophy of the social sciences, that is to say, issues in general methodology (understood as metascience rather than research techniques), and the application of philosophy to the social sciences—but not excluding papers with substantial empirical content that constitute contributions to the field. No school, party, or style of philosophy of the social sciences is favoured. Debate between schools is encouraged.
