THE GERMAN PEOPLE AND THE REFORMATION

Edited by R. PO-CHIA HSIA. More and more historians are asking how the religious schisms of sixteenth-century Europe affected the lives of ordinary men and women. Aware that religious faith is part of the larger social and cultural universe of early modern Europe, scholars have turned to hitherto neglected sources in order to reconstruct the people's Reformation. The essays in this volume represent the broad spectrum of recent scholarship in the social history of Reformation Germany. $12.95 paper; $39.95 cloth

Reforming Fundamentalism

Fuller Seminary and the New Evangelicalism

George M. Marsden

“The drama of Fuller’s attempts to reform its own tradition is a microcosm of what happened (and is still happening) to fundamentalism and evangelicalism in the past 40 years. Mr. Marsden tells the story well. . . .”

— THE NEW YORK TIMES BOOK REVIEW

“Marsden’s purpose is to show that the history of Fuller (founded 1947) clarifies the evangelical movement it was designed to serve. A risky undertaking for most authors, but Marsden convinces us that Fuller’s origins in the fundamentalist-modernist debate, its movement from separatism to engagement with mainline Protestantism, and its attempt to define biblical inspiration in a critical age combine to make it a microcosm of contemporary evangelicalism. . . . Marsden makes his case.”

— LIBRARY JOURNAL

“Outstanding. . . . It is a book that tells evangelicals a great deal about their aspirations, but even more about their noteworthy, sometimes frustrating, sometimes ironical efforts to live out the Christian message in modern American culture.”

— CHRISTIANITY TODAY

“Do read the expectably fine history by George Marsden . . . if you want a window on emergent evangelicalism and a description of its varieties and conflicts.

Behind the Geometrical Method

A Reading of Spinoza's Ethics

Edwin Curley

This book is the fruit of twenty-five years of study of Spinoza by the editor and translator of a new and widely acclaimed edition of Spinoza's collected works. It provides a useful focal point for continued discussion of the relationship between Descartes and Spinoza, while also serving as a readable and relatively brief but substantial introduction to the Ethics for students.

Behind the Geometrical Method is actually two books in one. The first is Edwin Curley's text, which explains Spinoza's masterwork to readers who have little background in philosophy. The second book, whose argument is conducted in the notes to the text, attempts to support further the often controversial interpretations offered in the text and to carry on a dialogue with recent commentators on Spinoza.

Pastors and Pluralism in Württemberg, 1918–1933

David J. Diephouse

Moving beyond earlier explanations of why the Protestant church opposed the Weimar Republic, David Diephouse emphasizes the social role of the church rather than its direct political activity. While churchmen wanted a privileged status consonant with their historic role in the monarchy, they also hoped to find a "living parish" by embracing the diverse constituencies of Weimar. Diephouse focuses on Württemberg and shows that even in south Germany most clergy failed to develop a coherent sense of institutional purpose in the pre-Hitler era.

Schools and Scholars in Fourteenth-Century England

William J. Courtenay

William Courtenay provides a comprehensive account of educational structure and intellectual life in fourteenth-century England. Arguing that the two decades between 1320 and 1340 merit recognition as a golden age of English scholasticism, he examines the achievements of this period, their origins, and their adoption throughout continental Europe. He depicts an institutional setting that rewarded not slavish obedience to school traditions but innovations in logic, mathematics, physics, and theology.

THE ALBERT C. OUTLER PRIZE IN ECUMENICAL CHURCH HISTORY

The Outler Prize was established to encourage the critical study of ecumenical church history, broadly conceived, and to facilitate the publication of such studies. "Ecumenical" is to be construed as chiefly concerned with the problems of Christian unity-and-disunity (doctrinal, cultural, institutional) in any period of church history; or with interactions between Christianity and other religious movements. Works of a partisan nature are excluded. The following categories are eligible:

- a. Studies, chiefly narrative and critical, of ecumenical church history dealing with historical controversies and divisions, or with notable instances of reconciliation and consensus.
- b. Analyses of church councils, dialogues, and debates, or interactions between Christianity and other religious traditions.
- c. Biographical studies of significant leaders, or of persons whose involvement in ecumenical dialogue and action was noteworthy.
- d. Critical editions (preferably annotated) of significant ecumenical documents.
- e. Bibliographical reviews and evaluations in major areas of ecumenical church history.
- f. Pioneering studies that advance scholarly knowledge and ecumenical understanding.

The prize consists of an award of $1000 to the author and a grant of up to $3000 in subvention of publication (or in exceptional cases, for necessary expenses in the preparation of a book-length manuscript accepted for publication). The prize will be awarded annually, though no award will be made in any year when none of the manuscripts is adjudged to be outstanding. Complete manuscripts in final form must be received by William B. Miller, Secretary, American Society of Church History, 305 East Country Club Lane, Wallingford, PA 19086, by 1 June. The prize will be announced at the annual meeting of the Society in December.
