Vienna in the Age of Uncertainty

Science, Liberalism, and Private Life

DEBORAH R. COEN

“Deborah Coen turns the prodigiously talented Exner family into a microcosm of a distinctively Austrian brand of liberalism in fin de siècle Vienna. She deftly interweaves science and politics, family and landscape, aesthetics and medicine. As vivid as the Exners themselves is their core value of uncertainty—as scientific tool, metaphysical postulate, and moral stance.”

GERALD STOURZH

With Forewords by Bernard Bailyn and John Boyer

“Gerald Stourzh’s essays are astonishing in scope, erudite, and cosmopolitan, ranging from his intriguing notion of a Tocquevillian ‘moment’ in Western history to his ethical concerns for human rights. His intellectual autobiography at the outset is worth the price of admission alone. The book stands as an elegant monument to a lifetime in transatlantic scholarship.”—Michael Kammen,

THE POLITICS OF ETHNIC SURVIVAL Germans in Prague, 1861-1914

Second Edition, Revised

by Gary B. Cohen

1-55753-404-7 • $34.95 • Paper • 6 x 9

356 pages • January 2006

This book examines how one of Imperial Austria's principal ethnic conflicts, that between Czechs and Germans, developed in one of the major cities during the era of industrialization and urban growth. It shows how the inhabitants of Prague, the capital of Bohemia, constructed and articulated ethnic group loyalties and social solidarities over the course of the nineteenth century.

A study of how parts of the Silesian population began to identify with the German, Polish or Czech nations, while others chose the alternatives either of Catholic identification or of their own ethnic groups of the Szolnok's, and the sluzanks and the Moraweks.

THE POMP AND POLITICS OF PATRIOTISM Imperial Celebrations in Habsburg Austria, 1848-1916

by Daniel L. Unowsky

260 pages • September 2005

The Pomp and Politics of Patriotism concentrates on the official presentation of the imperial cult, using the image of Franz Joseph (Habsburg emperor from 1848-1916) as a symbol of common identity in the Austrian half of the Habsburg Monarchy (Cisleithania), including the use of or rejection of this imagery by regional social and nationalist factions. During this period, the compelling notion was to use the imperial cult to define Habsburg patriotism. The story of the successes and setbacks in this endeavor, which illuminates the tension between national and supra-national identity in an age of expanding political participation, is the exploration of The Pomp and Politics of Patriotism.
