The Locust and the Bee

Predators and Creators in Capitalism's Future

Geoff Mulgan

"Can we replace the predatory part of capitalism with something creative and morally uplifting? This book shows us that we can. With daring historical insights, Mulgan shows convincingly that societies can choose their own destiny."

—Richard Layard, London School of Economics

Cloth $29.95 978-0-691-14696-6

Change They Can't Believe In

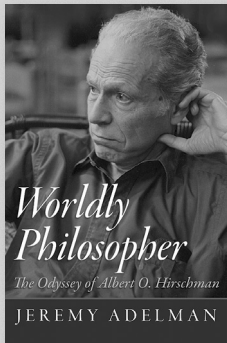

The Tea Party and Reactionary Politics
in America

*Christopher S. Parker &
Matt A. Barreto*

"The Tea Party has attracted a great deal of attention since it burst on the scene in 2010, but few books about the movement have rested on as impressive an empirical foundation as this one. The portrait Parker and Barreto paint of the model Tea Party sympathizer is chilling and sure to anger movement apologists who insist the group is made up of typical patriotic conservatives. This timely, important work deserves the widest audience possible."

—Doug McAdam, Stanford University

Cloth $27.95 978-0-691-15183-0

Worldly Philosopher

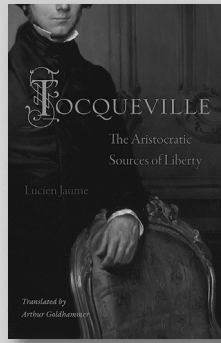

The Odyssey of Albert O. Hirschman

Jeremy Adelman

"This is an exceptional book. Hirschman's intellectual and political journey is described with sharpness and perspicacity. Family life, cultural encounters, and the imprints of a lifetime highlight the importance and significance of one of the most creative intellectuals of the twentieth century, who had a profound influence on so many people around the world, including myself."

—Fernando Henrique Cardoso, former president of Brazil

Cloth $39.95 978-0-691-15567-8

Tocqueville

The Aristocratic Sources of Liberty

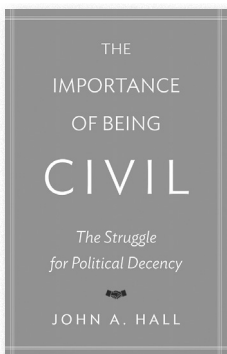

Lucien Jaume

Translated by Arthur Goldhammer

"Lucien Jaume succeeds admirably in providing a fresh reading of Tocqueville's Democracy in America. Based on deep and wide knowledge, this magisterial interpretation will immediately be recognized as significant by Tocqueville scholars, and it also makes an important contribution to current debates about the complex relationships between religion, democracy, and liberalism."

—Cheryl B. Welch, Harvard University

Cloth $35.00 978-0-691-15204-2

The Importance of Being Civil

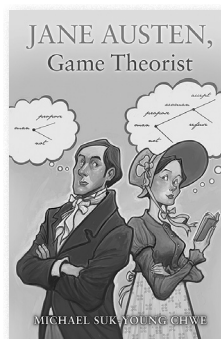

The Struggle for Political Decency

John A. Hall

"This important and engaging book explores the surprisingly diverse range of issues in which civility plays a key role. The book will be immensely useful to both specialists interested in developing new theories and general readers trying to make sense of an evocative but elusive concept."

—Bernard Yack, Brandeis University

Cloth $29.95 978-0-691-15326-1

Jane Austen, Game Theorist

Michael Suk-Young Chwe

"Jane Austen's novels provide wonderful examples of strategic thinking in the lives of ordinary people. In Jane Austen, Game Theorist, Michael Chwe brilliantly brings out these strategies, and Austen's intuitive game-theoretic analysis of these situations and actions. This book will transform the way you read literature."

—Avinash Dixit, coauthor of The Art of Strategy

Cloth $35.00 978-0-691-15576-0

Presidential Leadership and the Creation of the American Era

Joseph S. Nye, Jr.

“This timely book examines the impact of presidential leadership on the emergence and endurance of American global primacy. Nye is judicious, makes a plausible argument about each president he considers, and cuts through confusion and partisanship in his typically lucid and succinct way. I am unaware of any other book that does precisely what this one does.”

—John M. Owen IV, author of The Clash of Ideas in World Politics

Cloth $27.95 978-0-691-15836-5

Thinking about the Presidency

The Primacy of Power
William G. Howell
With David Milton Brent

“Thinking about the Presidency is an important antidote to all the rhetoric, reporting, prognostication, and public discourse that focuses on presidential individuality. Focusing on commonalities across presidents, Howell looks at how the institutional and political setting influences presidential behavior. His message is important.”

—Jeffrey E. Cohen, Fordham University

Cloth $22.95 978-0-691-15534-0

Presidents and the Dissolution of the Union

Leadership Style from Polk to Lincoln
Fred I. Greenstein
With Dale Anderson

“No one has provided such a compact comparative synthesis, using uniform investigative benchmarks as a means of judging all these presidencies. Students of the presidency—lay readers and academics—will surely want to read this masterful book. In a crowded field, Greenstein makes an important contribution.”

—Jean H. Baker, Goucher College

Looking for Rights in All the Wrong Places

Why State Constitutions Contain America's Positive Rights
Emily Zackin

“This is an extremely important book that will be widely discussed. One of the pathologies of the standard approach to American constitutionalism is its exclusive focus on the U.S. Constitution and the concomitant ignorance of the rich materials to be found in the literally dozens of American state constitutions. This book will be an extremely important wake-up call for most readers.”

—Sanford Levinson, author of Constitutional Faith

Democratic Reason

Politics, Collective Intelligence, and the Rule of the Many
Hélène Landemore

“Making an important contribution to democratic theory, this outstanding book takes seriously the possibility of popular rule and successful democratic decision making. Paying close attention to positive theory and empirical evidence, it offers a gust of fresh air. It will have a large audience both within and outside the political theory community.”

—Benjamin Page, Northwestern University

Cloth $39.50 978-0-691-15565-4

Making Human Rights a Reality

Emilie M. Hafner-Burton

“Making Human Rights a Reality cogently sums up the case that the standard, dominant approach to human rights promotion is ineffective. More than any other single book, this one lays out the problems and proposes a clear, alternative, and incentive-driven strategy based on targeting carrots and sticks where they will have the greatest impact. Even those who might disagree with Hafner-Burton will profit from her diagnosis and strategic prescriptions.”

The New Global Rulers

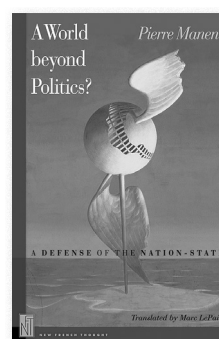

The Privatization of Regulation in the World Economy

Tim Büthe & Walter Mattli

“If you want to understand the depths of globalization and what makes it work, then I highly recommend reading this book. It is an example of first-rate research that offers thick descriptions, compelling theory, and convincing empirical results. The authors have done a masterful job in expanding our knowledge and understanding of globalization, and the book deserves to be widely read.”

A World beyond Politics?

A Defense of the Nation-State

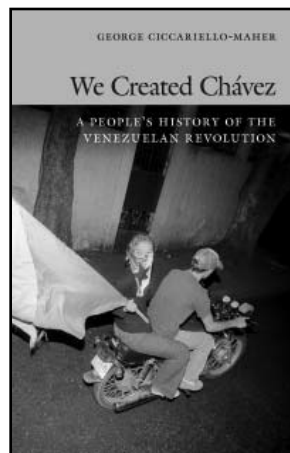

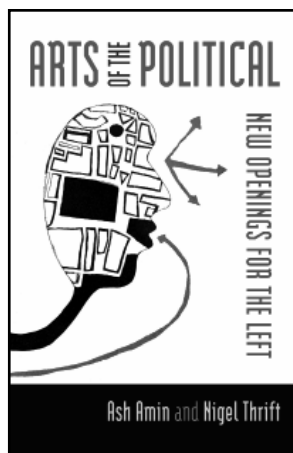

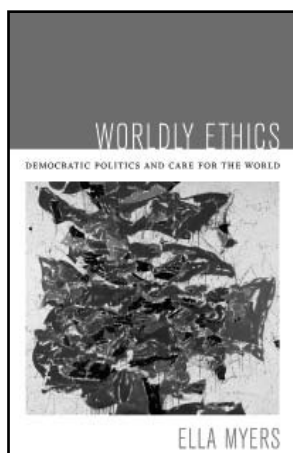

Pierre Manent

Translated by Marc LePain

“In this dazzling book, French political philosopher Pierre Manent tries to provide an ‘impartial overview of the political order—or disorder—of today’s world.’ Few living thinkers could hope to pull off such an ambitious undertaking, but Manent is surely one. . . . [D]elivered in Manent’s glistening prose, ably translated by Marc LePain. . . . It’s an ideal introduction to political philosophy in the new millennium.”

ACT OF CONGRESS

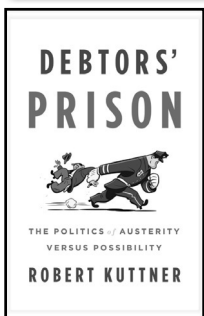

How America's Essential Institution Works, and How It Doesn't

Robert G. Kaiser

An eye-opening account of how Congress today really works—and doesn't—that follows the dramatic journey of the sweeping financial reform bill enacted in response to the Great Crash of 2008.

"[E]asily the best book on Congress I have read in decades. It is a stupendous achievement—richly informative, a pleasure to read, wise in its assessments of why Dodd-Frank was able to succeed. . . . Congressional scholars have much to learn from the book." —Thomas E. Mann, Senior Fellow, Governance Studies, The Brookings Institution

The Biological Roots of Crime

Adrian Raine

Adrian Raine explores neurocriminology, a new field that applies neuroscience techniques to investigate the causes and cures of crime, and uses more than three decades of his own research to dissect the criminal mind in this fascinating, readable, and far-reaching scientific journey into the body of evidence that reveals the brain to be a key culprit in crime causation.

"[I]ndispensable reading for anyone who wants to understand or prevent violent crime. . . . If we take this book seriously, criminology can move much closer to solving some of the biggest mysteries we face."

CATASTROPHIC CARE

How American Health Care Killed My Father—and How We Can Fix It

David Goldhill

This visionary investigation will change the way we think about health care: how and why it is failing, why expanding coverage will actually make things worse, and how our health care can be transformed into a transparent, affordable, successful system.

“David Goldhill offers a brilliant and much needed antidote. . . . Catastrophic Care provides an illuminating framework for understanding the crisis, and then a path to the kinds of reforms that will surely be necessary.”

Women, Work, and the Will to Lead

Sheryl Sandberg

“A landmark manifesto. . . . Lean In will be an influential book. It will open the eyes of women who grew up thinking that feminism was ancient history, who recoil at the word but walk heedlessly through the doors it opened.”

—Janet Maslin, The New York Times

“[Lean In] . . . addresses internalized oppression, opposes the external barriers that create it, and urges women to support each other to fight both. It argues not only for women’s equality in the workplace, but men’s equality in home-care and child-rearing. Even its critics are making a deep if inadvertent point: Only in women is success viewed as a barrier to giving advice.” —Gloria Steinem
