both of longstanding concern to the editors of Commentary, have been the focus of some of the most important articles we have published. Now reissued as Commentary Reports, many of them are available for use in college classrooms and by adult discussion groups. Dating from the start of 1963 and coming up to the present moment, they serve as a remarkable record of shifting thought and calls for action in the stormy era that has followed national confrontation of these problems.

We invite you to send for EXAMINATION COPIES of all eighteen of these Commentary Reports or to select one of the four subject groupings in which they are listed below. Your letterhead is the ticket of admission, write to Howard Gladstone, Commentary Reports, 165 East 56 Street, New York City 10022. The Reports are priced at fifty cents each, but your invoice will be cancelled whenever you or your bookstore place an order for twenty-five or more copies* of any one Report.

The Fiscal Revolution in America

Herbert Stein

Between 1931 and 1962 there was a revolution in American economic policy. The principle of balancing the budget gave way to the doctrine of managing government expenditures and taxes to achieve prosperity. Noted economist Herbert Stein tells the story of this revolution in terms of the leading participants in it and offers his conclusion that no single party or school of thought was alone responsible. Studies in Business and Society series.

The Rules of the Game in Paris

Nathan Leites

Translated by Derek Coltman

A longtime resident of France, with a profound and often uncomfortably acute understanding of what makes people tick, Nathan Leites probes the nuances of the French character. With wit and urbanity, he relates their political tendencies to their behavior and attitudes in other spheres of life. "He observes the French as they live and speak, as they behave, and above all as they write. And he does so with the utmost possible detachment."—from the Preface by Raymond Aron.

Public Controls for Nonpublic Schools

Edited by Donald A. Erickson

This book presents the first comprehensive examination of the legal, educational, social, and ethical issues involved in state regulation of nonpublic schools. Differing viewpoints are represented in papers by Governor Harold E. Hughes (Iowa), historian Franklin H. Littell, anthropologist Jules Henry, State Commissioner William J. Sanders (Connecticut), and William B. Ball, counsel for the National Committee for Amish Religious Freedom. Other papers explore the constitutional framework for public control of nonpublic schools.

Research in Archives

The Use of Unpublished Primary Sources

Philip C. Brooks

Almost all of the numerous existing texts on historical method dwell on the use of printed materials and pass lightly over archives and private papers. This manual is designed to help researchers in the location and proper use of unpublished source materials, including both official archives and historical manuscripts. Brooks draws upon more than thirty years of experience as an archivist in the National Archives and Records Service.

the economic approach to political science

PUBLIC CHOICE

The latest intellectual "revolution" in political science is economic analysis of political problems. Public Choice was established for the purpose of accelerating work in this new and exciting field of investigation. In the less than three years of its existence, it has already published articles by James S. Coleman, Duncan Black, James Buchanan, Vincent Ostrom, Gordon Tullock, Otto Davis, Kenneth Arrow, William Mitchell, Kenneth Boulding, Ferdinand Levy, Oliver Williamson, and many others. Public Choice is essential reading for political scientists interested in keeping abreast of the latest developments in their field.

Public Choice is published twice a year by the Center for Study of Public Choice, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Virginia 24061. Subscription price (includes membership in the Public Choice Society) is $7.00 for the paperback edition and $11.00 for the hardback.
