The Impact of International Organizations on International Law addresses how international organizations, particularly those within the UN system, have changed the forms, contents, and effects of international law. Professor Jose Alvarez considers the impact on sovereigns and actions taken by the contemporary Security Council, the UN General Assembly, and UN Specialized Agencies such as the World Health Organization. He considers the diverse functions performed by adjudicators – from judges of the International Criminal Court to arbitrators within the international investment regime. This text raises fundamental questions concerning the future of international law given the challenges international organizations pose to legal positivism, to traditional conceptions of sovereignty, and to the rule of law itself.

"A masterfully crafted piece of scholarship that engages with the very raison d'être of international organizations. Written by one of the leading authorities in the field, this book provides an insightful, perspicacious and to-the-point analysis of the impact of international organizations in today's international legal order while also shedding light on their weaknesses. A must read for all those whose work touches upon the law of international organization." Laurence Boisson de Chazournes, University of Geneva

"The role of Public International Law, rooted largely in decisions of or relating to international institutions, has been steadily, quietly re-shaping international economic relations and other links between states and regions for decades. There is no greater authority on international organizations within the American law community than Professor José Alvarez. This volume illuminates these trends as well as their limitations and vulnerabilities. It delivers a first-rate, incisive primer on the field." –David M. Malone, Under-Secretary-General of the United Nations, Rector of the UN University

READERSHIP: Scholars and practitioners interested in International Organizations, Sovereignty, and public International Law.

José E. Alvarez is the Herbert and Rose Rubin Professor of International Law at New York University Law School. He served as President of the American Society of International Law (ASIL) from 2006-2008 and is currently the co-editor in chief of the American Journal of International Law.

SAY GOODBYE TO international law as you know it.

To outdated ideas about environmental regulation, global financial transactions, and the traditional hierarchies of domestic and international courts.

SAY HELLO TO international law as we know it, from a global perspective.

One which recognizes that there are fewer degrees of separation between issues once treated in isolation. Like foreign investment and human rights. Or a health crisis in one country and a patent holder on the other side of the globe.

AT THE FOREFRONT OF THIS PRACTICE IS COLUMBIA LAW SCHOOL through

unique collaborations with governments, the U.N., regulatory agencies, and NGOs. On campus, you'll experience unparalleled programs in the future of warfare, global financial regulation and corporate law, and legal studies across Asia. Elsewhere, you'll find partnerships with a worldwide network of leading academic institutions and Columbia Global Centers.

And everywhere we are, you'll see pioneering legal scholarship building global paths toward freedom, peace, prosperity, and better governance.

Good Faith in International Law

Robert Kolb (University of Geneva)

In this book one of the leading public lawyers of his generation explores the concept of good faith and its role in international law. Rather than offer a detailed, comprehensive examination, Kolb aims to map the true points of gravity of the principle of good faith in the international legal order. In so doing, he illustrates how the various legal institutions who operate in the sphere of public international law allow the principle of good faith to unfold.

Robert Kolb is Professor of Public International Law at the University of Geneva.

Humiliation in International Relations

A Pathology of Contemporary International Systems

Bertrand Badie (Sciences Po, Paris)

In international relations (IR), some states often deny the legal status of others, stigmatising their practices or even their culture. Such acts of deliberate humiliation at the diplomatic level are common occurrences in modern diplomacy. In the period following the breakup of the famous 'Concert of Europe', many kinds of club-based diplomacy have been tried, all falling short of anything like inclusive multilateralism. Examples of this effort include the G7, G8, G20 and even the P5. Such 'contact groups' are put forward as if they were actual ruling institutions, endowed with the power to exclude and marginalise. Although this book primarily takes a social psychology approach to IR, it also mobilizes the resources of the French sociological tradition, mainly inspired by Emile Durkheim. It is translated from Le temps des humiliés. Pathologie des relations internationales (Paris, Odile Jacob, 2014).

The International Committee of the Red Cross and its Mandate to Protect and Assist

Law and Practice

Christy Shucksmith (University of Lincoln)

The purpose of this book is to consider the legality of the changing practice of the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC). It provides extensive legal analysis of the ICRC as an organisation, legal person, and humanitarian actor. It draws on the law of organisations, International Humanitarian Law, International Human Rights Law, and other relevant branches of international law in order to critically assess the mandate and practice of the ICRC on the ground.

The Arctic in International Law and Policy

Edited by Kristina Schönfeldt (University of Bonn)

This book provides an analytical introduction, a chronology of legally relevant events, and a selection of essential materials covering a wide range of issues about the arctic—eg delineation and delimitation of maritime boundaries, environmental protection, indigenous peoples' rights, shipping, and fisheries. Included are multilateral and bilateral treaties, UN documents, official statements, informal instruments, domestic laws, and diplomatic correspondence.

ASIL Studies in International Legal Theory

The purpose of the ASIL Studies in International Legal Theory is to clarify and improve the theoretical foundations of international law. Too often the progressive development and implementation of international law has foundered on confusion about first principles. This series raises the level of public and scholarly discussion about the structure and purposes of the world legal order and how best to achieve global justice through law. This series grows out of the International Legal Theory project of the American Society of International Law. The ASIL Studies in International Legal Theory deepen this conversation by publishing scholarly monographs and edited volumes of essays considering subjects in international legal theory.

UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO BOULDER

Geneva: study in the heart of Europe in a truly international environment

"The University of Geneva offers various international law courses at the postgraduate level in French and in English. In English it offers in addition several summer schools, a Certificate in Transnational Law (CTL) as well as four Masters in advanced studies (MAS) and one Executive Master. Students and professionals from around the world come to study in Geneva, the home of numerous international organizations, UN agencies, the ICRC and law firms active in international arbitration.

The CTL provides students with a chance to specialize, early in their career, in international legal affairs within one or two semesters. Students can tailor their studies according to their particular interests, be it public or private international law.

A new Geneva Master in European and International Governance (MEIG) offers a unique interdisciplinary learning experience combining European and international affairs, including possibilities for internship in the UN system.

The Geneva Academy of international Humanitarian Law and Human Rights, a joint venture of the Law School and the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies, offers a new MAS on Transitional Justice, Human Rights and the Rule Law. International Humanitarian Law and Human Rights are taught in a MAS and an Executive Master offered by the Academy, covering in depth all areas of international law relating to armed conflicts.

The Geneva Master in International Dispute Settlement, which is equally offered jointly with the Graduate Institute gives students the opportunity to study all aspects of dispute settlement in the international arena, across the divide of public and private."
