MORAL PROBLEMS NOW

G. Hagmeier and R. Gleason 18/- net

Alcoholism, homosexuality and a myriad other miseries are all too frequent moral problems. The two priests who have produced this book try to deal with these difficulties in terms of morality and modern psychology. A book for priests, teachers and parents.

THE TOKOLOSH

Ronald Segal, Illus. David Marais 5/- net

Apartheid is immoral. This short novel, written by one of the principal opponents of apartheid in South Africa, is based on the incident of the famous bus boycott. It describes how this sort of power can be wielded. David Marais is the political cartoonist on the Cape Times.

LOGIC FOR LUNATICS

John Coulson, Illus. Bro. Choleric 18/- net

Brother Choleric turns his attention from the clergy to the professorial laity. He illustrates a novel which deals with the sort of lunacies into which our thinking can fall.

THE IMAGE INDUSTRIES

William Lynch, S.J. 12/6 net

Most of us have watched some television programmes, and even more of us have been to the cinema. Father Lynch writes about the sort of liaison which ought to exist between art and industry in order to produce perfection in our mass media.

PEOPLE, SPACE, FOOD

A. McCormack 7/- net

Over-population is a terrifying problem. It is often argued that contraception on a large scale is the only answer. Father McCormack examines a complex alternative.
