THE POETRY AND PROSE OF WILLIAM BLAKE

Edited by David V. Erdman
Commentary by Harold Bloom

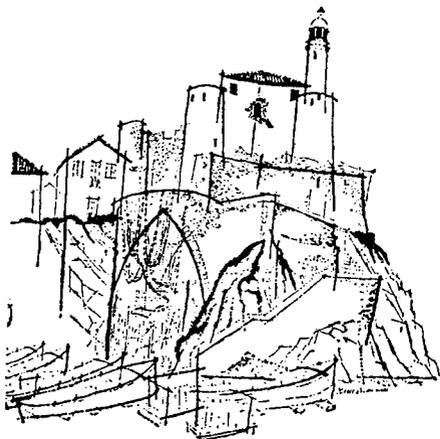

Why a new edition of William Blake? Because more and more readers are recognizing Blake's greatness and hence put immense importance into the reading of every word. This is the first full edition with Blake's own punctuation, spelling and capitalization and with many new readings. Hundreds of corrections have been made, some of which crucially alter the sense of the text; numerous additions of words, lines and paragraphs not previously deciphered are included. Here is a sound, uncluttered text for readers, keyed to a full apparatus of variant and deleted passages for study. "David V. Erdman's edition . . . is . . . much superior to (its) predecessors . . . Erdman's real achievement has simply been to look at the physical realities of Blake's text more closely and intelligently than any previous editor."

WRITER TO READER

Readings for Composition

Neal F. Doubleday, Millikin University

This new collection of readings and closely related instructional material illustrates how accomplished writers, with differing subjects and intentions, have written for various groups of readers. These outstanding readings show the student how he may handle everyday college writing problems and see the importance of a clear writer-reader relationship.

A complete, flexible collection. Reading selections may be assigned for varied instructional purposes. Selections are well-proportioned to stress a variety of styles appropriate for modern educated reading. Writings include both "classic" selections and modern essays, sketches, and articles. Ample instructional aids for optional use: questions; problems; theme-writing suggestions.

THE COMPLETE POETICAL WORKS OF JOHN MILTON

Edited by Douglas Bush

This distinguished Cambridge Edition contains all of Milton's poetry, including verse from Milton's prose works. All non-English poems are given in the original language and in new translations by the editor. Spelling and punctuation are modernized to facilitate understanding, although some of Milton's preferred forms are retained. Professor Bush has arranged the poems chronologically according to his research and to previously known dates. Footnotes appear on the page with the text.

The absorbing story of a significant, little-known chapter in the life of a distinguished Frenchman

ANDRÉ MALRAUX
The Indochina Adventure
by WALTER G. LANGLOIS

In 1923—some forty years before he became France's Minister of Culture—André Malraux was accused of stealing art treasures from Angkor Wat in Indochina, then a French colony seething with nationalist ferment. The story—and the story of Malraux's other adventures in Indochina—is now told in full for the first time by Dr. Langlois, Associate Professor of French at the University of Kentucky. Fascinating in itself, it is also important to an understanding of Malraux as man and artist, for it was while he was editing a pro-nationalist newspaper in Saigon that he came to know Chinese and Soviet agents, including the legendary Borodin. From these associations sprang the powerful novels of Malraux's mature period.

PLAIN ENGLISH PLEASE

by GREGORY COWAN and ELISABETH McPHERSON

both of Clark College with the assistance of GLENN LEGGETT, President, Grinnell College

With humor and immense good sense, this text takes the poorly prepared student through each step in writing a paper: knowing what he is writing, knowing what his main idea is, understanding the varying requirements of various purposes, and analyzing what he has written to see if it makes sense. Teachers whose freshman composition students can't write and don't read will find this the most refreshing, realistic, and effective guide.

THE MODERN AMERICAN NOVEL: Essays in Criticism

Edited by MAX WESTBROOK, University of Texas

Critical essays on fourteen major American novels frequently studied in the undergraduate Modern American Novel course. The essays concentrate on themes and techniques central to each novel and do not assume or demand wide reading of other novels by the author under consideration or wide reading of other criticism. Some of the books and authors studied include: Theodore Dreiser's An American Tragedy; F. Scott Fitzgerald's The Great Gatsby; Ernest Hemingway's The Sun Also Rises; William Faulkner's The Sound and the Fury and J. D. Salinger's The Catcher in the Rye.

A Practical Rhetoric of Expository Prose

By THOMAS S. KANE and LEONARD J. PETERS, University of Connecticut, Waterbury Branch

While problems of grammar and usage are considered in this new textbook for freshman English courses, the art of prose composition is given major emphasis—those techniques of language and structure that will enable the student to write with precision, grace and clarity. After a discussion of general terms and problems, the authors set forth detailed, specific, and systematic studies of the essay, the paragraph, the sentence, and diction, drawing examples from the work of the best English writers. Exercises reinforce points made in the text.

Language and Culture

By HERBERT LANDAR, California State College at Los Angeles

In this textbook for courses in linguistics, the author examines contemporary issues in the field as they relate to problems in anthropology, sociology, philosophy, and psychology. He deals with the nature and uses of language, the relation of reading and writing to the sociology of knowledge, and the philosophy of language with special reference to semiotic theory and other general behavioral models. Special attention is given the merits of the question, popularized by Benjamin Lee Whorf, of how language influences one's thought and Weltanschauung.

Four Plays by Sophocles

Translated by THEODORE HOWARD BANKS, Professor of English Emeritus, Wesleyan University

Professor Banks has cast three translations of Ajax, The Women of Trachis, Electra, and Philoctetes in a carefully controlled form, designed to come as close as possible to producing the aesthetic effects of the original plays. Using blank verse for most of the dialogue, he takes special care to catch the idioms and cadences of spoken rather than written language. The choruses are treated as lyric poetry, in varying stanzaic forms. The book completes his translations of Sophocles' plays, begun with Three Theban Plays: Oedipus the King, Antigone, and Oedipus at Colonus (Oxford University Press, 1956, paper $1.50).

Restoration Drama: Modern Essays in Criticism

Edited by JOHN LOFTIS, Stanford University

Nineteen recent essays provide a survey of modern literary scholarship on Restoration Drama in this reader. L. C. Knights attacks Restoration comedy in a noted study; F. W. Bateson offers a defense in his essay. Other scholars evaluate individual playwrights. In his introduction, Professor Loftis discusses the variety of current approaches to the plays, a subject of critical interest and controversy since the days of John Dryden.

Poetry—From Statement to Meaning

By JEROME BEATY, Emory University, and WILLIAM H. MATCHETT, University of Washington

The reader is led step by step from prose to poetry in this introductory textbook. Syntax and definition are the first considerations. The discussion next turns to what may be implied though not stated, through voice, vantage point, or tone, and then centers, in the second half of the book, on images and analogies and patterned sound. Throughout the authors seek to develop awareness of poetic meaning through analyses of individual poems. "A fine, sensitive, and sensible poetry introduction."—R. Guertin, University of Minnesota

The Modern Tradition: Backgrounds of Modern Literature

Edited by RICHARD ELLMANN, Northwestern University, and CHARLES FEIDELSON, JR., Yale University

The first major attempt to decide what is modern and what is traditional in "the modern tradition," this unique book brings together the ideas of poets and novelists with those of artists, scientists, philosophers, and theologians, showing unexpected relationships among them. The editors provide an introduction for each of the nine sections of the book, as well as a general introduction. "It seems to me that it will become an essential guide to anyone studying the origins and ideas and theories associated with the modern movement."—STEPHEN SPENDER

Revised Edition

By EDWARD M. STACK, North Carolina State

Recent improvements in the technology of the language laboratory are described in the Revised Edition of this widely used book—a work that is unique in its specific, detailed guide to laboratory procedures. The first section, greatly expanded in this edition, concerns systems, types, construction, and administration of language laboratories. In the remainder of the book, the author discusses the linguistics and methodology of language learning. Questions and problems supplement each section, for use in classroom projects, research, or individual reviews.

The Irish Stage in the County Towns 1720-1800

By WILLIAM SMITH CLARK, University of Cincinnati. In this continuation of Professor Clark's The Early Irish Stage: The Beginning to 1720, the period of theatrical expansion is described in a tour of nine leading county seats. The author includes in the record of stage activities those historical changes which affected the development of dramatic entertainment. Considerable new information about the playhouses has been drawn from all available Irish provincial newspapers of the period and from manuscripts and stage account books. 12 plates. $11.20

The Spectator

Edited by DONALD F. BOND, University of Chicago. As George Sherburn stated, "If one wishes to know what the eighteenth-century Londoners thought about, one can do no better than to read The Spectator." The present edition is the first in over sixty years and also the first to provide an authoritative text, based upon a complete collation of the original sheets—all 635 essays are reprinted. An extensive introduction and commentary by Professor Bond throw new light on problems of publication and authorship and enable the reader to enjoy these essays against the background of their own times. 5 plates.

Collected Works of Oliver Goldsmith

Edited by ARTHUR FRIEDMAN, University of Chicago. This is the first collected edition of Goldsmith in eighty years. It contains those works traditionally thought to have literary interest and a few other miscellaneous pieces. The texts have been established by a study of all relevant editions and manuscripts, and some pieces are printed here for the first time since the eighteenth century. The editor provides introductions and explanatory notes where necessary. 5 plates.

The Rhetorical World of Augustan Humanism

Ethics and Imagery from Swift to Burke

By PAUL FUSSELL, Rutgers University. This book offers a new interpretation of the central tradition of eighteenth-century English literature, the tradition that stems from the humanism of the Renaissance. It considers the ethical convictions and the allied expressive practices of Swift, Pope, Johnson, Reynolds, Gibbon, and Burke, with special emphasis on Johnson. By focusing on recurring moral images in these authors, the book establishes the dimensions of a self-contained imaginative world and demonstrates the continuity of the emotional and rhetorical struggle which these six great writers conducted against the forces of subjectivity, disorder, and innovation. 1 plate. $8.80

Future Perfect

American Science Fiction of the Nineteenth Century

By H. BRUCE FRANKLIN, Stanford University. "An unusually stimulating collection—not only because of the stories brought together here, but also because of Franklin's illuminating and suggestive introductory notes. . . . Particularly relevant, it seems to me, are the psychological stories from the later nineteenth century . . . which belong to the general movement of fictional exploration of the psyche that leads so directly into twentieth-century concerns."—HENRY NASH SMITH

The Fictions of Life and of Art

By LEO BERSANI, Wellesley College. "Mr. Bersani's book is one of the most brilliant and, at the same time, one of the most readable studies of Proust to have appeared in the last few years. . . . A great wealth of insights into the creative process whereby Proust transformed his own experience into the singular novel."—GERMAINE BRÉE. "I'll wager that a larger number of minds in the literary-scholarly community will skim off the top of Mr. Bersani's compact study than have finished Proust's 3,000 pages."—ROGER SHATTUCK, Book Week.

The Partial Critics

By LEE T. LEMON, University of Nebraska. The author has produced not merely an estimate of the work of individual critics and their failure or success in taking complete account of a literary work of art, but a thorough discussion of the various ways in which different systems of criticism function. "A highly intelligent assessment of all modern schools of criticism, with a strong and persuasive point of view of its own."—RICHARD ELLMANN

French Literature

for Second and Third Year Study

L'Exil et le royaume

Albert Camus. Edited by B. F. Bart, Syracuse University

This collection of short stories, Camus' last-published work, includes "La Femme adultère," "Les Muets," "L'Hôte," "Jonas," and "La Pierre qui pousse." In addition to a general introduction, which discusses Camus' work and provides background material, there is a brief introduction to each story, discussion questions, a French-English vocabulary listing, and footnotes where necessary. 198 pages. Paper. $2.75.

Les Meilleures Nouvelles de Marcel Aymé

Marcel Aymé. Edited by James H. Baltzell, California State College, Long Beach

Written in a straightforward style and containing a large measure of dialogue, these six witty and fanciful stories by the popular French writer, Aymé, are particularly well suited to the intermediate course. The stories are arranged according to degree of difficulty, with discussion questions, footnotes where necessary, and a French-English vocabulary listing. 288 pages. 6 drawings. Paper. $3.25.

Le Pont de la rivière Kwai

Pierre Boulle. Edited by Georges J. Joyaux, Michigan State University

This modern classic, both an adventure story and a tense psychological drama, has been especially adapted for intermediate courses. With a biographical sketch of the author, an introduction, footnotes, questions and discussion topics, and a vocabulary listing. Line drawings illustrate the text throughout. 230 pages. Paper. $2.95.

Prose and Poetry of Modern France

Edited by Ramon Cuthrie, Dartmouth College and George E. Diller, Dartmouth College

This anthology is designed as a basic text for courses devoted entirely or in part to the study of twentieth-century French literature. Selections from the works of some twenty-nine eminent writers, from Baudelaire to Saint-John Perse, have been chosen on the basis of their enduring merit, interest, and significance in French literary history. With brief introductions to the writers, footnotes, and sixteen pages of art reproductions. 518 pages. Cloth. $6.95.

Témoins de l'homme: Nouvelles et récits (1889-1959)

Edited by Albert Sonnenfeld, Princeton University and Edward D. Sullivan, Princeton University

This anthology offers short stories by fourteen such well-known writers as Maupassant, Gide, Colette, Mauriac, and Camus, as well as substantial extracts from two modern novels—Malraux's L'Espoir and Sartre's La Nausée. Each selection has a brief introduction, footnotes, questions of a literary nature, and a selected bibliography. With a French-English vocabulary listing. 382 pages. Cloth. $5.95.

An Enquiry in the Theme of Lovers' Meetings and Partings at Dawn in Poetry
edited by Arthur T. Hatto (London)

1965. 854 pages, 8 colourplates. Cloth. $ 24.30

The theme of lovers' meetings and partings at dawn is widespread in the world's love-poetry as no other. In their pursuit of this theme the contributors have been moved equally by scholarly, philosophic, anthropological and aesthetic considerations, as its universal character requires. They give in the original the five hundred odd poems and songs cited, and offer a rendering in contemporary English that sacrifices nothing of accuracy and no more of beauty than can be helped. In their introductions and commentaries they place the poems in their historical, social and literary contexts and in so doing make a weighty contribution to the history of love-poetry, about which, in contrast to epic, so little is known. The dawn poems published here (some of them for the first time) range from an Egyptian poem of the Thirteenth Century B.C., through specimens from Ancient China and India and the classical and later literatures across the world, to folk-songs of modern Peru and beyond.

This book provides the first great venture in comparative world literature within the field of the love-lyric.

THE ART OF EMILY DICKINSON'S EARLY POETRY

By DAVID T. PORTER

In this study Mr. Porter defines the developmental stage of Emily Dickinson's career and identifies the stylistic habits already established prior to the outpouring of her mature poetry after 1861. Through a perceptive reading of the poetry, he discerns the unique voice of the poet and the theme which dominates her early work. $4.95

EMILY DICKINSON'S READING, 1836-1886

By JACK L. CAPPS

Defining as nearly as possible the limits and content of the material she read, Col. Capps describes the special influence on Emily Dickinson's work of the King James Bible, the Metaphysical poets, Burns, Emerson, and the Brownings. $4.95

HAWTHORNE'S CONCEPTION OF THE CREATIVE PROCESS

By RICHARD J. JACOBSON

Mr. Jacobson examines and delineates the processes of mind that Hawthorne conceived as underlying the creative act and demonstrates the profound relevance to his work of the novelist's deep concern with the relationship between art and morality. *LeBaron Russell Briggs Prize Honors Essays in English. THE LETTERS OF MRS. GASKELL

Edited by J. A. V. CHAPPLE and A. POLLARD

Covering the years 1832-1865, this volume includes all of Mrs. Gaskell's letters the editors could trace. Valuable as the record of a significant writer, they also contain a wealth of information about a host of major Victorian literary figures. 2 vols. $25.00

MRS. GASKELL

Novelist and Biographer

By ARTHUR POLLARD

In this systematic critical examination of her work, including a biographical survey and summary, Mrs. Gaskell emerges as a figure of some significance in the annals of the English novel and as a writer who clearly deserves rereading today. $5.50

THE LETTERS OF CHARLES ARMITAGE BROWN

Edited by JACK STILLINGER

These lively and entertaining letters, together with related letters and documents, introduction and notes, shed new light on the Keats circle and provide a full portrait of Brown. More than half the material in this complete collection of Brown's extant letters is here published for the first time. $12.00

LEARNED LADY

Letters From Robert Browning to Mrs. Thomas FitzGerald, 1876-1889

Edited by EDWARD C. McALEER

Containing sixty-six previously unpublished letters from the Carl H. Pforzheimer library, plus eight others previously published, this book offers one of the best sources for the last fourteen years of Browning's life. Mrs. FitzGerald was a dear friend and a "learned lady." $5.50

THE COLLECTED WORKS OF WALTER BAGEHOT

The Literary Essays

Edited by NORMAN ST JOHN-STEVAS

Walter Bagehot (1826-1877), banker, economist, political thinker and journalist, critic and man of letters, was Victorian England's most versatile genius. These first two volumes of his collected works—bringing together for the first time everything he wrote of lasting value—present his highly individual, lucid, and penetrating literary criticism. 2 vols. $17.50

CONCEPTIONS OF SHAKESPEARE

By ALFRED HARBAGE

Mr. Harbage explores the "Shakespearean afterimage," the impact of the man and his works on biographers, critics, actors, directors, theatergoers, and moral philosophers in his own era and thereafter. He shows that successive generations, each with a different perspective, tend to create a Shakespeare of their own. $4.95

KING HENRY IV, PART II

By WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE

Edited by A. R. HUMPHREYS

This carefully edited text is based on the 1600 Quarto edition but also gives due attention to the First Folio text. Mr. Humphrey's informative introduction and notes present the best scholarly opinion on matters of sources, content, style, and leading themes, without overburdening the commentary with expository material. The Arden Shakespeare. $4.50

THE ELIZABETHAN DUMB SHOW

The History of a Dramatic Convention

By DIETER MEHL

The use of the dumb show is a surprisingly common theatrical device in Elizabethan drama. In this book the author discusses its roots in civic shows and pageants, analyzes the various types and their diverse functions in individual plays, and demonstrates how their development reflects the main stages of growth in English Renaissance drama. $4.50

Yale University Summer Language Institute

YALE UNIVERSITY will again offer in the summer of 1966 a series of intensive courses at beginning, intermediate and advanced levels in contemporary languages of Europe and East Asia. In addition, reading courses will be given in French and German, a literature course in French, German, Italian, Russian, and Spanish, as well as a course in teaching of modern languages. All the language courses are offered for eight weeks, beginning June 27 through August 19.

ELIGIBILITY: Courses in the Institute are open to qualified men and women who are college graduates or who are enrolled in college, and also to those who are engaged in teaching.

TUITION: Advanced courses, meeting, one hour per day, $100; reading courses, meeting two hours per day, $175. Other courses meeting three to four hours per day, $250-$300; Far Eastern languages, $200-$400 (depending on the number of class hours).

SCHOLARSHIPS: A limited number of scholarships, covering one half the tuition costs, are available to students whose academic record and financial need warrant this assistance.

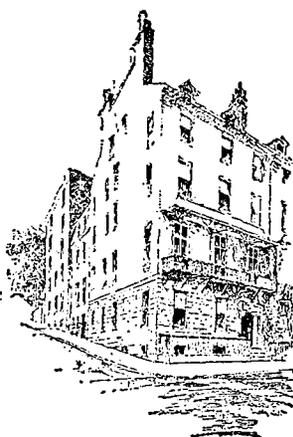

CREDIT: Each course is evaluated in terms of the credit that would be granted if it were given during the regular academic session of Yale College. For work satisfactorily completed equivalent credits are customarily granted by the institution in which the student is enrolled. Teaching of Modern Languages is the only course evaluated at the graduate level.

Living quarters and cafeteria meals are available on the University Campus. In addition, living facilities can be found near the campus at customary rates.

A catalogue describing the curriculum in detail, together with application forms, will be mailed upon request. Completed applications should be received by the Summer Language Institute not later than June 20.

The Roots of Modern English

L. M. MYERS Arizona State University

A provocative introduction to the development of the English language.

This exceptional text presents the development of the English language in a readable, meaningful, and vivid style. Avoiding unnecessary technical detail, this new text gives students a maximum of help in approaching the earlier stages of English, and in understanding current tendencies rather than memorizing theory and fact.

This advertisement was written by instructors

* Behavioral Research Laboratories believes that the comments of these instructors, relating actual classroom experiences with BRL materials, clearly demonstrate the effectiveness of BRL programmed textbooks.

"I was ready to write my own basic text on Spanish until I found the BRL series . . . it is the most well-integrated treatment of the subject I have yet encountered. Educators have looked for years to find language texts that motivate the student. They've found such a text at last with the BRL Spanish Series.

"These BRL programmed textbooks are written to challenge the student . . . each student must focus on the material and understand each frame before he goes on to the next one. No two frames are alike and there is no monotony in the presentation of the material. These texts are written to motivate the student in a way which is far more effective than other books on the subject.

"I think the recordings and text are well integrated. My students are presented with several different ways to attack an idea in Spanish: a question from the text may be printed in English with an instruction to translate this question into Spanish, the tape then provides the answer in Spanish. I particularly like the way illustrations are employed in these books. Students are required to comment on and ask questions in Spanish about the pictures. In using the tape with BRL texts, I instruct the students to write answers in Spanish to questions asked in English, to write answers in English to questions asked in Spanish, and to answer questions in either language in both a negative and an affirmative manner. The interrelationships of various ideas through the tapes and textbooks are extremely well organized. This Spanish text integrates all the drill work so well that it eliminates homework. My Spanish students work at home on enrichment studies only.

"Last semester I had a girl with less than average I.Q. in my class. In a very short time she grasped this new work well. We were surprised at her success in coping with Spanish. It used to be a miracle if one could get this student to concentrate for ten minutes at a time . . . now she works for 15 to 20 minutes at a stretch. The broad-band appeal of this material makes it especially effective in dealing with students of varying I.Q.'s.

"Early this year, a boy with an emotional problem enrolled in my Spanish class. After working with the BRL text for just two weeks, he began to develop a feeling of real accomplishment. . . . These books motivate and suit all types of students: low I.Q.'s, the emotionally disturbed, the over-achievers, the poor learners, the gifted students as well.

"After the first four months of using the BRL Spanish textbook, I began to be swamped by parents asking me what I had done to motivate their children. . . . The parents became so interested in the results I was getting that we formed several adult classes in Spanish."

using BRL LANGUAGE PROGRAMS *

"Many of my German students have told me that they were never able to grasp languages before. But so far, all of them are doing well. They all like the idea of working at their own speed and being able to go over the parts they find difficult without slowing down the rest of the class. The faster students like BRL because they can move along to new material without the boredom of drills.

"We use the BRL text in our lab sessions. The student is assigned 400 frames a week which takes him between six and ten hours to complete, depending upon his proficiency. He can schedule his lab work at his own discretion, even doing it all in one day if he wishes. He works with the text and with a tape recorder. He can stop the tape recorder at any point and go back over material or perfect his pronunciation. He can study alone, or sit at a table with other students in the lab. There is an instructor on duty at all times to answer questions or help with difficult passages. Once a week we have a general class assembly and we go back over the material learned in the frames. We supplement class assemblies and lab work with twenty minutes a week of conversation German.

"The order or presentation of material in BRL texts is completely different than that of the standard texts. For example, most texts give all persons of a verb to be learned at once. BRL texts give one or two persons of a verb, and add the rest later. The student is less aware of grammar. He begins to learn it and use it without the rules. Later, after a pattern is established, the student learns them. . . . He isn't drowned in grammar from the very beginning. Instead, the student learns it as he needs it, in a relatively painless way."

Christian Nordhorn,
Union Lake, Michigan

"I especially like the BRL feature of showing the differences between English and Spanish, and I also like their sound system. I used BRL exclusively in teaching sound. By this method the student sees the material and can easily tell the difference. If initial study of a foreign language is not handled properly, confusion and embarrassment result. BRL helps avoid this problem from the beginning, as it allows a student to control his own success and indulge in self-teaching without showing his mistakes before the rest of the class. It eliminates the feeling of competition and creates an individual atmosphere for learning.

"At times I asked my students to write out difficult grammar and encouraged them to work on it outside of class. I also assigned the vocabulary lists in BRL material. Most of the homework involved practicing aloud and was basically oral and for this I used A-L-M.

"Most of my students learned faster and better. 'B' students got 'A's,' and I believe this happened because of the opportunity they had to progress on their own. They were enthusiastic, liked each day, and were unhappy if they had to wait even 15 minutes to move onto the next section.

"BRL gave my students objectives and taught them the scope of language. It provided a panoramic view of Spanish. When it came to the need for expressing ideas as they went through, they knew what they had to do and did it. BRL helped show the necessity for each tense. The programmed material I used was an excellent departure as it involved reading in association with sound."

A STYLE MANUAL FOR STUDENTS

by EDWARD D. SEEBER

A great success since publication a little over a year ago, this book is already in use at leading colleges and universities throughout the country. Based on the MLA Style Sheet, it explains in simple and understandable form correct styling and typing for all segments of academic and other papers, discusses the manuscript, its parts and their forms, punctuation, spacing, brackets, numerals, foreign words and phrases, quoted matter, abbreviations, footnoting and bibliographical procedures, etc. Contains a wealth of concrete illustrations including reproductions of typed pages which demonstrate the form of footnotes, bibliography, title and contents, pages, etc. (Examination copies available on request) 94 pages paper $1.00

A STYLE MANUAL FOR AUTHORS

by EDWARD D. SEEBER

Designed for the author of scholarly books and articles, this is the first book of its kind to conform generally to the Style Sheet of the MLA. It explains acceptable principles of typescript preparation, styling, and proofreading, and clarifies the author-publisher relationship. Included are numerous illustrations showing the form of footnotes and bibliography entries, foreign language problems (titles, proper names, word division), and specimen pages showing corrections in manuscript and in galley proof. The book also offers advice on obtaining illustrations and permissions. A selected bibliography lists additional sources on correct usage, copyright practices, indexing, graphic methods, and special styling requirements in certain fields. "This latest style manual has two virtues which recommend it highly: brevity and most of the rules and recommendations of the influential Modern Language Association."—Allan Angoff, Library Journal

Teaching French: An Introduction to Applied Linguistics, Second Edition

Robert L. Politzer, Stanford University

This textbook describes and demonstrates the application of linguistics in imparting the basic skills of the French language at the high school or college levels. The first part of the book is devoted to general methodological considerations; the second part introduces linguistic concepts. The book develops an awareness of conflicts in pattern between French and English, and demonstrates the remedies offered by a linguistic teaching method. 1965. 181 pp. $4.00

Teaching Spanish: A Linguistic Orientation, Second Edition

Robert L. Politzer, Stanford University
Charles N. Staubach, University of Arizona

A companion volume to Teaching French: An Introduction to Applied Linguistics. This text deals with the teaching of Spanish—primarily the imparting of basic skills at the high school or college level. General methodological linguistic concepts are presented, yet the emphasis remains on the teaching of Spanish rather than on its scientific analysis. 1965. 136 pp. $4.50

Continuons à Parler: A Workbook

Michio P. Hagiwara, University of Michigan
Robert L. Politzer, Stanford University

Continuons à Parler is a workbook designed for use at a second-year college or third-year high school level. It is divided into twenty-six lessons, each lesson containing the following parts: a discussion on one feature of phonetics followed by a series of pronunciation drills; a short, lively dialogue with several pattern drills; a series of auditory discrimination and comprehension drills; a test on auditory comprehension. This text can be used either by students in the language laboratory as part of their homework to improve their aural-oral skills, or in the classroom, where each lesson may take up one or two class periods. 1966. In press.

Tape program, Instructor's Manual, and Script to accompany Continuons à Parler are in preparation.

In addition, the editors provide a dozen commentaries on individual selections and groups of selections. Approx. 576 pp., $5.95 (tent.).

A READER FOR WRITERS: A Critical Anthology of Prose Readings, Second Edition

By JEROME ARCHER, Arizona State University; and JOSEPH SCHWARTZ, Marquette University. A new edition of 85 readings organized within a rhetorical framework and illustrating the major forms of discourse: exposition, argument, description, and narration. Footnote questions on each page and questions on the whole selection encourage intensive analysis of the essays. Approx. 600 pp., $5.95 (tent.).

STORIES FROM SIX AUTHORS, Second Series

By ARNOLD B. SKLARE, C. W. Post College; and WILLIAM E. BUCKLER, New York University. Offering an in-depth approach to the short story form, an average of four stories from each of six authors: Alberto Moravia, James Joyce, Katherine Anne Porter, Thomas Mann, D. H. Lawrence, Henry James. Extensive editorial aids include biographical notes, questions for discussion and writing, and commentaries by the authors on their own work. 432 pp., $3.95 (tent.), soft cover.

CHARACTER AND CRISIS: A Contemporary Reader

By PHILIP LEVINE, Fresno State College; and HENRI COULETTE, California State College at Los Angeles. An imaginative, thematic collection of 20th century readings for the teacher who wants fresh, challenging material: selections by Saul Bellow, Dwight MacDonald, Mary McCarthy, Camus, Sartre, etc. Approximately half of the selections are essays; the other half consists of poetry and fiction, including two novellas and a one-act play. Approx. 500 pp., $3.95 (tent.), soft cover.

CRITICAL THINKING: Its Expression in Argument

By ROBERT L. SHURTER and JOHN R. PIERCE, both of Case Institute of Technology. Emphasizes the principles of critical thinking in relation to the principles of organizing and writing themes. The combination of text and anthology makes this the only self-sufficient textbook of its kind on the market. Approx. 320 pp., $4.95 (tent.).

THE FERMENT OF REALISM, American Literature, 1884-1919
 by WARNER BERTHOFF, Bryn Mawr College

This volume traces four main currents in American literature—realism, regionalism, “the literature of argument,” and the formation of what is described as a “vivid contemporary mythology” of common American life—from 1884 to 1919. It begins with the emergence of realism as a dominant literary force and takes the reader as far as the development of modern poetry in the era that ended with World War I. Minor as well as major figures are considered. The author shows how the writers of the period reacted to the work of their predecessors and contemporaries, to foreign literary currents, journalism, contemporary events, and to changing mores. Professor Berthoff reviews and evaluates the work of the period from Howells, Twain, and James to the pre-war writing of Dreiser and Stein. A number of extremely interesting, largely neglected writers whose influence on their contemporaries was considerable are introduced here. For instance, a section on regionalism and local color reintroduces “one of the mislaid treasures of American writing”—Sarah Orne Jewett’s The Foreigner

THE SCHOLAR ADVENTURERS

by RICHARD D. ALTICK

The Scholar Adventurers chronicles the research behind some of the most exciting and rewarding discoveries of literary scholars.

“This book has several of the characteristics of a well-written detective story. Mr. Altick supplies suspense wherever his subject allows it; his characters include brilliant (and occasionally odd) unravelers of riddles as well as some crafty villains; and his style is brisk. . . .

“Some pessimistic observers insist there is no such thing as a book which will appeal both to the specialist and the general reader. Mr. Altick has demonstrated how they can be wrong.”—The American Historical Review

POETS ON POETRY

Edited, with an Introduction and Notes, by CHARLES NORMAN

These sixteen short works provide a unique opportunity to examine and compare the theories of English and American writers who have given form and direction to the poetic tradition in English. From Sir Philip Sidney’s An Apology for Poetry to E. E. Cummings’ Three Statements, they constitute a body of documents essential to understanding the historic development of that tradition. The book includes such pivotal texts as Wordsworth’s Preface to Lyrical Ballads and Shelley’s A Defence of Poetry.

Representing the last 600 years of the most distinguished poetry in English, this collection ranges from the work of Geoffrey Chaucer to that of Geoffrey Hill. It provides an unusually abundant coverage of modern poetry, and includes footnotes to clarify obscure references and usages.

POETIC DESIGN: Handbook and Anthology

by James G. Hepburn,
University of Rhode Island
This text consists of both an anthology of excellent poems and a handbook that contains detailed discussions and exercises on the major aspects of poetry. Its general approach is analytical and inductive, and its discussions proceed from the simple to the complex. The anthology covers, in chronological order, 250 poems from Chaucer to such modern poets
as W. H. Auden and Dylan Thomas. There are ten poems of more than a hundred lines each.

ESSENTIALS OF RHETORIC

by William E. Buckler, New York University, and Arnold B.
Sklare, C. W. Post College
This book presents a survey of rhetorical essentials: exposition, argument and persuasion, description, and narration.
Leaving the mechanical aspects of English to the classroom teacher, it confines itself to the central considerations of rhetoric. It surveys paragraphs, sentences, and diction in relation to rhetoric, and is readily usable with any reference handbook. In addition to the numerous short readings included for illustration and exposition, there are thirteen full-length selections.

THE ART OF THE NOVELLA:
A Collection of Eight
Short Novels

Edited by Arnold B. Sklare,
C. W. Post College

This book presents to the freshman or sophomore student eight short novels, or novellas, in order to illuminate some aspects of that rarely-discussed literary form. Its Preface is enlightening, and the biographical and bibliographical material about each of the eight authors at the end of the book is helpful in classifying and analyzing the novella. The eight short novels themselves are examples of the highest attainments of the art. Their authors include Tolstoy, Melville, Joyce, Conrad, and James.

DIRECTIONS IN PSYCHO-LINGUISTICS

Edited by Sheldon Rosenberg, George Peabody College for Teachers

This volume is a collection of original articles that cover areas in the relatively new discipline of psycholinguistics:
grammatical and linguistic models, mediation theory, and verbal conditioning. All the articles are written by well-known psychologists with active research interest in the problems of verbal learning. Serious students of language will find the innovative directions of the thinking suggestive and helpful in furthering an understanding of language processes and in identifying fruitful areas of research. It is an excellent choice for students of the summer

NDEA Linguistics Institute.

INTRODUCTION TO LITERATURE: Stories, Poems, and Plays

by Lynn Altenbernd, University of Illinois, and Leslie L. Lewis, University of Colorado

Each of these three volumes provides essential readings and explanatory material for a study of one area of literature. Combined, they serve as the basic text for an introductory literature course. A "handbook" section in each volume describes succinctly the nature and significant characteristics of the literary form to be studied. The volumes all follow a chronological pattern of selections, and all contain the finest examples of each of the three literary arts.

by Guy Davenport

In Guy Davenport's unique translations the elegance and supple grace of Sappho's lyrics are re-created for the modern reader.

"...there is real distinction in the writing and a refreshing freedom from the self-conscious tone, vacillating between pretentiousness and archness, which spoils most attempts to do Sappho."

—Richmond Lattimore

"Sharp, bright, above all essentially strange, these versions convince us for the first time in English that Sappho's voice comes from a world piercingly unlike our own, but with so articulate an identity that we recognize it in the least fragment."—Hugh Kenner

The Philosophy of Surrealism

by Ferdinand Alquié

"Alquié's study is unique, and stands as an important contribution to the critical literature on surrealism...essential reading for anyone interested in surrealism, whether as literature, art, or attitude toward life."—J. H. Matthews

In this landmark study Ferdinand Alquié explores the origins of the surrealist philosophy—of love, of life, of man's relation to the world—which has left its imprint on the art and thought of our time.

He discusses surrealist aims and hopes, examines the relationship between the surrealist revolt and the Marxist revolution, and defines surrealist conceptions of poetry, love, engagement, expectations, and symbols. Finally, he relates the surrealist theory of imagination to religion, aesthetics, and metaphysics.

IMPORTANT NEW CRITICAL STUDIES

EMERSON AND THOREAU:
Transcendentalists
in Conflict

By Joel Porte

The first book-length comparative study of Emerson and Thoreau in English. Faced with the enormous problem of redefining religious and aesthetic experience in an age of great change, they are shown to be worlds apart intellectually and emotionally despite the fact that their thought is usually equated under the rubric of Transcendentalism. Their conflict—and difficult friendship—provides a key to understanding the contours of American literary thought in the nineteenth century.

PSYCHOANALYSIS AND SHAKESPEARE

By NORMAN N. HOLLAND, Massachusetts Institute of Technology

The schizophrenic, the obsessional, the manic depressive, the paranoiac, the compulsive, the psychopath, the megalomaniac—Shakespeare was sensitive to them all and one can find these and many other neurotic and psychotic types in the plays. Although so much literary criticism of Shakespeare is at odds with psychoanalytic observers, Professor Holland brings together the opposing points of view—with rundowns on who said what about which play, what a particular incident or line reveals about Shakespeare, how the genuine insights of psychoanalysis can clarify obscure passages. His conclusion is that a play should be treated both as a realistic portrayal of psychological events outside itself, and as itself a psychological event. For the critic, the scholar, the student and the playgoer, Psychoanalysis and Shakespeare is not to be missed. $9.00

THE RUSSIAN NOVEL

By F. D. REEVE, Wesleyan University

In this highly original, brilliant presentation of 150 years of Russian writing, Dr. Reeve shows how Pushkin's particular genius gave Russian literature a new shape and a new direction. With Pushkin, the novel became a means of protest and comment on the human condition and from his great poem, Eugene Onegin, to the latest work by Pasternak, the Russian novel became stylistically realistic, and politically an instrument of reform. For each writer he discusses, Mr. Reeve has selected a particular book as focal point of his discussion of the author's philosophical orientation, his social criticism, and his use of style and technique in molding his thought into a novel. One of the most engrossing books of literary criticism to appear recently. $7.50

CHANGES OF ADDRESS, AFFILIATION, AND RANK

The MLA Treasurer's office urgently requests the cooperation of members so that it may cut down the number of misdirected copies of PMLA and may make the annual September directory a more accurate listing of the membership. At present, we receive a distressingly large number of communications in the late fall reporting new affiliations and addresses as of September. The results are that several hundred copies of the September issues are not delivered (and neither forwarded nor returned to us) and these mailings then have to be duplicated later when we have finally received current addresses. Unless we have information about new affiliations and addresses by the middle of July, we cannot record them in the September directory or include the new addresses in the mailing list for the September issues.

We would furthermore ask that members give all necessary information when writing to us about any change. If a member previously at the University of Texas sends a U. S. Post Office form giving a new address in Hanover, New Hampshire, we may guess that he has accepted an appointment at Dartmouth, but we cannot be certain and, in any case, do not know what academic position should be included in his directory listing. Each such case—and there are many—requires that we send a card asking for the additional information. Members reporting a change of name because of marriage should indicate whether directory should list only married name, or maiden name plus married name in parentheses.

From now on, the form on the back of this announcement will appear in almost every issue of PMLA. If members will cut it out and use it to inform us of changes, we will be able to handle them with more efficiency and dispatch.

SCHEDULE OF DUES

Section I, 1, of the bylaws, as amended by the action of the membership at the business meeting at New York, New York, December 27, 1964, reads:

"The annual dues shall be fifteen dollars except for the following special categories of membership:

- a. Student membership at seven dollars, open for a maximum of four years to those who are engaged primarily in a course of study leading to a degree and who do not hold full-time teaching appointments.
- b. Joint husband-and-wife membership at twenty-two dollars with only one subscription to PMLA.
- c. Foreign membership at ten dollars, open to resident citizens of countries other than the United States and Canada.

With the exception stipulated in sub-section b, members in these three special categories shall be entitled to all the rights and privileges of membership."

LOOKING FOR A BOOK PUBLISHER?

It is no secret that publication is regarded as the foundation stone of a scholar's career. In order to gain recognition, prestige, and advancement, the scholar must seek publication.

Here at Exposition Press, we offer scholars a complete publishing service, under our special academic imprint, "Exposition-University Books." Though the proportion of scholarly publications in the lists of the trade houses is shrinking, due to economic pressures, many of our recent titles in the academic fields have gained popular reviews, professional recognition and steady sales. These books are the result of a publishing plan that is bringing a steady flow of scholarly writers to Exposition Press. They reflect the high editorial standards and quality of design and production which have won the respect of libraries, schools, booksellers and critics. Ask for free catalogs.

FREE! The behind-the-scenes story of book publishing revealed in two fact-filled, illustrated brochures, containing a detailed description of our subsidy plan including a breakdown of contract terms and typical costs (in print for the first time). Copies are available on request. Your inquiries and manuscripts are invited. An editorial appraisal will be furnished promptly without obligation. References upon request.

STUDIES IN LANGUAGE

Noam Chomsky and Morris Halle, Editors

the first two volumes

Cartesian Linguistics: A Chapter in the History of Rationalist Thought

NOAM CHOMSKY Through an examination of the theories of language developed in the 17th, 18th, and early 19th centuries, the text demonstrates the relevance of Cartesian linguistics to recent developments in linguistics (specifically the theory of generative grammar) and cognitive psychology. Several themes are traced through these centuries: the attempt to comprehend the "creative" aspect of language use; the abstractness of underlying linguistic structure; the problem of raising linguistic investigation from the level of "natural history" to "natural philosophy," and the role of intrinsic cognitive structure in perceptual processes and in the acquisition of knowledge. Coming in May.

The Philosophy of Language

JERROLD J. KATZ A new approach to the philosophy of language, this book seeks solutions to philosophical problems in the theoretical constructions of linguistic theory. Through this perspective, philosophy of language attempts to make philosophically significant discoveries about the structure of our conceptual knowledge on the basis of what is known about the medium in which such knowledge is expressed and communicated. Dr. Katz also considers the approaches to philosophy of language inherent in the two most influential movements in twentieth-century philosophy: logical empiricism and ordinary language philosophy. The current theory of language is presented and applied to sample philosophical problems. 326 pp. $7.25 in a new durable paperback. Jan. 1966 $3.00

Pope's Eloïsa to Abelard with the Hughes version of Heloise's Letters. Introduction and Notes by James E. Wellington.

Here, for the first time, a thoroughly annotated edition of Pope's great love poem is published with the actual source from which he worked, the Hughes version (1713) of the letters from Heloise to Abelard. This book thus gives the reader a perfect opportunity to discover the various ways in which a great poet has used his source material. Complete cross referencing is included in the notes; and there is an extensive introduction, offering a brief history of the real Héloïse and Abélard as well as a detailed analysis of the poem and an account of the letters themselves.

THOUGHT IN PROSE

3rd Edition, 1966

edited by Richard S. Beal, Boston University, and Jacob Korg, University of Washington. "The Third Edition of Thought in Prose, like previous editions, rests on the belief that writing must be the main business of freshman English, but that learning to write well is inseparable from reading a variety of good prose and developing an inquiring mind. The wide-ranging and carefully planned selection an anthology can offer seems to use one of the best ways of encouraging the student to examine his own experience and ideas, and to increase the appreciation of both the experience and ideas of others and of the effective uses of language.

"The organization of this edition remains essentially that of previous editions, moving generally from brief, relatively simple pieces to more complex expository problems and evaluations.

". . . Our guiding intention, as in previous editions, has been to provide expository prose of high quality, varied in style and difficulty, and representative of a range of rhetorical aims and methods, but consistently within the serious student's understanding." —from the authors' Preface. March 1966, approx. 650 pp., $6.50

THE CURRENT VOICE

Readings in Contemporary Prose

by Don L. Cook, James H. Justus, and Wallace E. Williams, all of Indiana University. ". . . the excellence of taste and the editorial discrimination which went into the making of this anthology impress me very much. . . . Messrs. Cook, Justus, and Williams have put together a book of genuine literary merit—a book that contains a wealth of substantial and lively reading." —from a pre-publication review.

The aim of The Current Voice is to confront college students with the serious response of skillful and resourceful writers to the contemporary environment. Interesting, forceful, exciting writing has been the chief criterion for selection. The readings demonstrate that the most vital and mature voices of our generation address complex issues through a conscious, varied, and disciplined rhetoric. With a few exceptions, the essays were written since 1950, many of them in the 1960's, and few of them have been previously anthologized. The selections range in mood from satire to complex arguments by Lewis Mumford and Robert Oppenheimer, from the unbuttoned vernacular of James Jones and Clancy Sigal to the poetic evocations of Jean Genet and Dylan Thomas. At the end of each selection, "Questions and Suggestions" direct the reader's attention to the organization, thesis, tactics, diction, sentence structure, and distinctive rhetorical devices contained in the selection. March 1966, approx. 450 pp., paperbound, $3.75

A LANGUAGE READER FOR WRITERS

by James R. Gaskin, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Jack Suberman, North Carolina State University at Raleigh. This text fulfills a wide range of needs in the college composition course. Ten chapters are presented, each containing reading selections on the English language. Readable in their own right, these selections are also relative to the chapter headnotes and suggestions for discussion and writing, providing the student with a valid and constructive framework for his own writing and thinking.

The selections in A Language Reader for Writers are varied in style, period, and length. They are, however, of a kind in subject matter, each presenting some facts or opinions about the English language. The headnotes and suggestions for discussion and writing guide the student to a creative reading of the selections and a comprehension of the logic of good writing.

IMPORTANT FEATURES:

- Offers a concise lesson in rhetoric in each chapter.
- Provides questions and suggested assignments that are relevant to the reading selections.
- Brings unity to each chapter, focusing on a particular rhetorical element for clarity, while the book as a whole recognizes the interaction of these elements in good writing.
- Includes an alternate Table of Contents listing the reading selections within a rhetorical frame. January 1966, 288 pp., paperbound, $2.95

CONFRONTATIONS SERIES

Robert J. Nelson, General Editor. The most important articles and essays on various problems in French literature are presented in this series of anthologies, designed for advanced literature courses and graduate seminars.

The basic idea is to "confront" a given problem with a body of criticism—a combination of the "case-book" or "sourcebook" approach used in classes in English or American literature, but with notable differences. The Confrontations Series will contain selections in whole or in part chosen from books and articles, and representing significant critical opinion of earlier periods which is not readily available today. The selections, employing a polemical principle, are in French and English (mostly the former). Explanatory notes are as neutral as possible, i.e., for identification of the authors and source of an excerpt, some allusion to the reason for his writing the work or its relation to the subject of the volume. In no case will the student be forced to accept the individual editor's opinion, but on the contrary, he will be encouraged to draw his own conclusions and to delve further into the problem.

The first four titles in the series follow:

CORNEILLE AND RACINE: PARALLELS AND CONTRASTS edited by Robert J. Nelson, University of Pennsylvania, 176 pp., $3.95

FRENCH CLASSICISM: A CRITICAL MISCELLANY edited by Jules Brody, University of Rochester, 221 pp., $4.25

FRENCH LITERARY CRITICISM: THE BASIS OF JUDGMENT edited by Neal Oxenhandler, University of California at Santa Cruz, 213 pp., $4.25

VOLTAIRE ET LA CRITIQUE edited by Jean Sareil, Columbia University, 189 pp., $3.95

All volumes are paperbound

MASTERPIECES OF FRENCH LITERATURE SERIES

Robert L. Politzer, Editor. Featuring unabridged editions of the shorter classics, ranging from the sixteenth to the twentieth centuries and including a few outstanding masterpieces of medieval literature, this series is designed primarily to meet the demand for flexibility and variety in courses where the one- or two-volume anthology is considered unsatisfactory.

PROGRAMMED DICTIONARY FOR MASTERPIECES OF FRENCH LITERATURE

edited by Robert L. Politzer, Stanford University. The two primary features of this dictionary are its unique program apparatus and its French orientation, a combination that presents the student with a pedagogical tool heretofore unavailable.

The programming permits the student to record the number of times he looks up each word. Thus he realizes the importance of the word and that by this time it should be a part of his working vocabulary.

The second feature is the nature of the entries themselves, each of them defined in basic French rather than in English (though in cases of special difficulty an English equivalent is also provided). This permits the student to work directly in the foreign language. May 1966, 84 pp., $1.45

LE BOURGEOIS GENTILHOMME (MOLIÈRE)

edited by Claude K. Abraham, University of Florida. This book presents one of the great comedies of the classic French theatre, with notes and questions designed explicitly for the American student of today. January 1966, 138 pp., $2.50

GENITRIX (MAURIAC)

edited by John Porter Houston and Mona Tobin Houston, both of Indiana University. This classic twentieth-century short novel is a model of simple, elegant French. Its theme is the conflict among members of a bourgeois family, and its setting, sumptuously described, is a small town near Bordeaux around the turn of the century. May 1966, 89 pp., $1.95

TRISTAN ET ISEUT (ANONYMOUS)

edited by Donald Stone, Jr., Harvard University. This edition gives the student with no knowledge of Old French the opportunity to read this world-renowned love story in a modern text that preserves as closely as possible the style of the original. June 1966, approx. 144 pp., $2.50

CONTES DU 19e SIÈCLE

edited by Richard Switzer, University of Wisconsin. An introduction to the major prose authors of the nineteenth century through a presentation of their finest short stories. Fall 1966, approx. 192 pp., $2.50
All volumes are paperbound

LE PONT NEUF

by Edward M. Stack, North Carolina State University at Raleigh. Le Pont Neuf is a French review grammar for use in second-year college courses.

Each unit begins with an analytical exercise; each grammatical section includes drills with answers to verify the student's understanding of the material before doing the associated devoir. March 1966, approx. 340 pp., $5.95

LA RÉUSSITE

by Gerard Delmain, edited by Joseph P. Ebacher, Xavier University. In the Prentice-Hall Programmed Reading French Series, this slightly abridged French novel is presented in the Ebacher format for rapid reading—consisting of an interlinear vocabulary and a plastic grid used to conceal this vocabulary. This method has been shown to produce a 50 per cent increase in amount read, a 50 per cent decrease in number of errors, and a near total retention of vocabulary. January 1966, 252 pp., paperbound, $4.75

ORTEGA Y GASSET: SUS MEJORES PÁGINAS

edited by Manuel Durán, Yale University. An anthology of essays by one of the great contemporary Spanish literary figures, this new volume presents an over-all picture of Spanish culture that includes Ortega's thoughts on art, history, literature, and sociology. Footnotes and introductions make the readings easily understandable to intermediate students. January 1966, 250 pp., paperbound, $3.95

UNAMUNO: SUS MEJORES PÁGINAS

edited by Philip Metzidakis, Mills College. This anthology represents Unamuno the man, the thinker, and the creative artist. It is unique in that it is edited solely with the North American undergraduate in mind.

Each section is preceded by a special introduction which acts as a supplement to the general introduction. This volume contains a glossary as well as numerous footnotes which not only explain but also attempt to stimulate further study. April 1966, 318 pp., paperbound, $3.95

LA ESPAÑA MODERNA VISTA Y SENTIDA POR LOS ESPAÑOLES

edited by Thomas R. Hart, University of Oregon, and Carlos Rojas, Emory University. A new approach to the study of Spanish civilization as seen through modern prose and poetry. This new text and reader centers on problems of special concern to modern Spain and on the attitudes toward these problems of a number of Spain's most distinguished contemporary writers. Poetry, fiction, and contemporary non-fictional prose are represented. The book can therefore be used both as a reader in intermediate Spanish courses and as a basic text for a course in Spanish civilization. February 1966, 341 pp., $5.95

GERMAN TEXTS

AUS DEUTSCHER GESCHICHTE

Johannes Gutenberg
Die Türken vor Wien
Fridericus Rex
Volkserhebung 1813
20. Juli 1944

by Werner Haas, University of Massachusetts. "Aus Deutscher Geschichte is a graded reader for beginning and intermediate students of German. The objective of this book is to link the learning of German with appreciation of German culture and history. Meaningful historical episodes and portraits from five centuries, presented from a critical and scholarly point of view, serve this purpose. . . ."—from the author's Preface

IMPORTANT FEATURES:

- Well-selected footnote vocabulary and a complete end vocabulary.
- Variety of exercises relating to the text which are useful both for classroom work and written assignments.
- Numerous maps and photographs pertaining to the subject matter of the five selections.

May 1966, 254 pp., paperbound, $3.75

DREI MEISTER- NOVELLEN

by John W. Kurtz, Oberlin College and Edith Davis Kurtz. A comprehensive reader in nineteenth century literature for the intermediate course in German, this book combines one of the best romantic stories of the first half of the century with two masterpieces representing poetic realism and the heyday of the German novella in the latter half.

CONTENTS: Clemens Brentano, Die Geschichte vom braven Kasperl und dem schönen Annerl; Theodor Storm, Der Schimmelreiter; Gottfried Keller, Romeo und Julia auf dem Dorfe. February 1966, 273 pp., paperbound, $4.25

GERMAN BALLADS

edited by Ernest J. Leo, The City College of New York. This collection of ballads spanning the eighteenth to the twentieth centuries is primarily intended to furnish the student of German with poems of literary distinction which can be rapidly read and easily grasped for the stories they tell. Many of the ballads can be read as early as the end of the first college year, and even the more advanced selections present a relatively uncomplicated syntax. The new words occurring here serve as a convenient basic introduction to the poetic vocabulary which the student will encounter later in literature courses. May 1966, approx. 128 pp., $1.95

PRINCIPLES OF RHETORIC

by Richard E. Hughes and P. Albert Duhamel, both of Boston College, Boston, Massachusetts. A basic text for Freshman composition courses, Principles of Rhetoric is intended to be used critically, as a means of teaching students what to look for in effective writing, and creatively, by teaching the student how to improve his own work. A completely revised volume of the text portion of the authors' highly acclaimed Rhetoric: Principles and Usage, this new edition is a classroom tested, systematic presentation of the principles of effective expression which are directly relevant to the problems of communication to be encountered by today's student. April 1966, approx. 288 pp., paperbound, $2.95

ANATOMY OF WRITING

by Peter Swiggart, Brandeis University. Anatomy of Writing is a new composition approach to language study. Dr. Swiggart combines instruction in logic and language meaning with practical procedures for the writing of themes or quizzes, and correction of writing mistakes.

The book provides specific and challenging theme assignments that expose the integral relationship between writing and thinking errors, and encourage students to pay close attention to language detail. Numerous examples are given of bad sentences and weak arguments that result from a student's confused grasp of the writing topic or muddled notion of the writing aim.

While serving the composition course, Anatomy of Writing also provides an effective bridge between a course in rhetoric and an introduction to literature. The self-conscious attention that good writers pay to the details of their own writing is shown to be directly related to the attention that is essential to the reading of good poetry.

IMPORTANT FEATURES:

- Applies recent trends in language philosophy to the teaching of composition and shows how a student's awareness of semantic ambiguity can help him correct errors and discover convincing arguments.
- Includes exercises and writing assignments with each chapter.
- Provides close analysis of actual student themes, written in response to such assignments.

THINKING STRAIGHT Principles of Reasoning for Readers and Writers

3rd Edition, 1966

by Monroe C. Beardsley, Swarthmore College, Pennsylvania. This new Third Edition of Thinking Straight presents as simply and clearly as possible some basic principles concerning logical reasoning, deductive and inductive reasoning, and the management of language in reasoning—all designed to develop skills in writing and reading, speaking and listening. All of the examples, whether cited as illustrations in the text or used for exercises or quizzes, are completely new. There is a check-up quiz at the end of each section of the book (20 sections in all). At the end of each chapter there are longer exercises, 5 for each chapter. Answers to all of these exercises and quizzes will be available in a separate Answer Book. May 1966, approx. 350 pp., paperbound, $3.75

MODERN SPANISH, Second Edition

A Project of the Modern Language Association

DWIGHT L. BOLINGER, Harvard University

JOAN E. CIRUTI, Mount Holyoke College

HUGO H. MONTERO, Harvard University

While retaining the sound principles which informed the pioneering first edition, the Second Edition is thoroughly revised and redesigned. The dialogs and related grammatical drills and explanations have been condensed and rewritten where necessary; translation drills, combined replacement drills, and the last six units of cultural readings have been omitted. These revisions result in a more compact, more teachable book. Twenty-four new full-page photographs are included, and a new audio program of records and tapes and a revised Instructor's Manual accompany the text. A new Study Guide is in preparation. Text: 512 pages, $7.50 (probable). Publication: April

VOCES HISPANOAMERICANAS

Edited by PETER G. EARLE, University of Pennsylvania

Such well-known Latin American writers as Darío, Martí, Borges, and Neruda are included in this anthology of poems, short essays, short stories, and a long play. These are grouped under three headings: Nuestra América, Tradición y rebeldía, and La América universal. With a General Introduction to Latin American literature and biographical and critical notes in English, footnotes, and questions. Paperbound. 320 pages, $2.95 (probable). Publication: April

DOCE HISTORIAS DE LA ARTAMILA de Ana María Matute

Edited by MANUEL DURAN, Yale University

and GLORIA DURAN, Southern Connecticut State College

A new intermediate reader containing 12 exciting and dramatic tales about life in an imaginary village in northern Spain. Selected from Miss Matute's acknowledged literary masterpiece, these stories are presented unabridged and are accompanied by a systematic program of study aids: preliminary sentences, marginal glosses, questions, drills, and vocabulary. Illustrated. Paperbound. 172 pages, $2.95. Just published

TEATRO HISPANOAMERICANO: Tres Piezas

Edited by FRANK N. DAUSTER, Rutgers, The State University

Presents three absorbing Latin American plays—Francisco Arrivi's Vejigantes, Enrique Solari Swayne's Collacocho, and Emilio Carballido's Rosalba y los Llaveros—with an introduction in English to the Latin American theater, prefatory notes on the authors and their plays, footnotes, and a vocabulary. Paperbound. 272 pages, $2.95.

VOCES ESPAÑOLAS DE HOY

Edited by MANUEL DURAN, Yale University

and FEDERICO ALVAREZ, University of Mexico

An anthology of contemporary Spanish literature, offering varied selections (essays, poetry, a short monologue, a long play, and a short story) that are representative of new trends and present an image of modern Spain. With introductions and headnotes in Spanish, footnotes, questions, and vocabulary. Paperbound. 216 pages, $2.95

MODERN FRENCH

by DAN DESBERG and LUCETTE ROLLET KENAN

Conversational proficiency is the primary aim of this first-year textbook, but the complete program—text, records, and tapes—affords ample practice in reading and writing. At the core of the program are twenty units of dialogues, from which are derived inductive grammar presentations, phonetic transcriptions of the conversations, pronunciation drills, spelling problems, and questions and topics for oral and written composition. The audio supplements include 20 hours of tapes, which reproduce all drills and provide four repetitions for each dialogue, and a boxed set of five records containing all of the dialogues. Instructor's Manual available. Text: 360 pages, $5.95

VOIX D'AUJOUR'HUI

by GERMAINE BREE, University of Wisconsin and MICHELINE DUFAU, New York University

A collection of modern, engaging readings, ranging from the quiet drama of Arrabal's Baal Babylone to the brilliant comedy of Anouilh's Cécile. It offers the student a lively introduction to twentieth-century literature as well as careful guidance and practice in reading comprehension and vocabulary development. Questions keyed to each selection and audio-lingual drills are provided at the back of the book; unfamiliar words are glossed in the margins; and tapes present a performance of Cécile, selections for repetition, and further exercises. A separate booklet of Recorded Exercises contains the script for the tapes. Paperbound. 264 pages, $3.75

POETRY FOR EXPLICATION

by MICHELINE DUFAU and ELLEN F. D'ALELIO,
New York University

Introduces the student to the technique of "explication de texte," and aims to increase knowledge of the language and develop critical acuity through close textual study of grammatical structure, vocabulary, and style. Focusing on the relationship between language and thought, the program consists of model poems, questions, and explications. The student studies the models and becomes gradually independent of the authors' examples, so that he can finally formulate his own questions and explications—aided by marginal glosses in the poems and a section of literary and critical terms. Paperbound. 128 pages. $1.95 (probable). Publication: September

A SURVEY OF FRENCH LITERATURE, Revised Edition

Edited by MORRIS BISHOP, Cornell University

The best of French literature is represented (by long selections or complete works, wherever possible) in this two-volume collection, along with thoroughly revised introductions and notes. Among the changes in Volume I, The Middle Ages to 1800: Le Cid replaces Cinna; Phèdre replaces Britannicus; Le Bourgeois gentilhomme replaces Le Malade imaginaire; and a new section on "L'Esprit philosophique" has been added. Volume II, The Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries, is a major revision, including new prose selections by Giono, Camus, and Ionesco, and new poetry by Apollinaire, Cocteau, Aragon, and Queneau. Each volume: 462 pages, $7.50

With introductions, questions, and vocabulary. Paperbound. 291 pages. $3.75. Just published

R.S.V.P.: Invitation à écrire

by MICHEL BEAUJOUR and NANCY REGALADO,
Yale University

This text-workbook uses an exchange of letters between a French and an American student as a vehicle for improving writing skills. Each of the 15 units contains a lettre, questions, a dictée, exercices, and a réponse, thus guiding the student from closely controlled expression to free composition. Paperbound. 253 pages, $2.95

DEUX PIECES MODERNES

Edited by THOMAS BISHOP, New York University

Presents Giraudoux's La Guerre de Troie n'aura pas lieu and Anouilh's La Valse des toréadors. Affords insight into the nature of the modern French theater and into the structure and use of the language itself. With long biographical and critical introductions, study questions, vocabulary, and editorial aids. Illustrated. Paperbound. 233 pages, $2.45

DEUX FILMS FRANCAIS

Les Visiteurs du soir; Le Feu follet

Edited by ROBERT M. HAMMOND, University of Arizona and MARGUERITE HAMMOND

Offers the complete scripts of Louis Malle's Le Feu follet and Jacques Prévert's Les Visiteurs du soir—two intriguing examples of the contemporary French cinema. The text is marginally divided into ten reading lessons and augmented by questions and grammatical exercises. Films available. Paperbound. 243 pages, $2.95

STIMMEN VON HEUTE

Edited by SHALOM WEYL, The City College of New York

Introduces the intermediate student to the literature of postwar Germany with long, self-contained excerpts from five outstanding contemporary novels: Christian Geissler's Anfrage, Günter Grass's Die Blechtrommel, Gerd Gaiser's Schlussball, Heinrich Böll's Billard um halb zehn, and Ernst Kreuder's Herein ohne anzuklopfen. A Project of Syracuse University under contract with the United States Office of Education

CLAYTON L DAWSON, Coordinator, Syracuse University
CHARLES E. BIDWELL, University of Pittsburgh
ASSYA HUMESKY, University of Michigan

A project designed specifically for the two-year introductory course and based on audio-lingual principles. The two volumes aim at developing speaking proficiency in authentic, contemporary Russian, while providing comprehensive instruction in reading and writing. A complete program of records and tapes and an Instructor's Manual are available. Vol. I: 480 pages, $6.95; Vol. II: 482 pages, $6.95

NEW VOICES: Contemporary Soviet Short Stories

Edited by KENNETH HARPER,
GALINA KOULAEFF, and MARGARITA GISETTI,
University of California at Los Angeles

A short poem by Yevtushenko sets the tone of this collection of five stories, whose themes reflect the private world of the individual as he deals with universal problems. All have been recently published in Soviet journals; none has been previously anthologized. With questions, marginal glosses, an introduction surveying modern Soviet literature, and a Russian-English vocabulary. Paperbound. 191 pages, $3.50. Just published

BALLAD OF A SOLDIER

Edited by LAURENCE C. THOMPSON,
WILLIS KONICK, and VLADIMIR GROSS,
University of Washington

The script of the absorbing Soviet film is presented in textbook form, which enables the student to see Russian as a living language being spoken by people of his own age and similar background. With footnotes, marginal glosses, a Russian-English vocabulary, and an Introduction discussing the film's relevancy to modern Russian life and culture. Paperbound. 137 pages, $2.95. Just published

Outstanding books for English courses

SEVENTEENTH-CENTURY PROSE AND POETRY: Second Edition

Edited by ALEXANDER M. WITHERSPOON and FRANK J. WARNKE, University of Washington

Taking into account changing critical standards and sensibilities of instructors and students, this distinguished survey has been revised and expanded. It includes new headnotes and bibliographies for each author, and a new appendix of criticism—selections by Samuel Johnson, T. S. Eliot, Morris Croll, and Austin Warren. Also new to this anthology are the works of several minor poets: Michael Drayton, Giles Fletcher, and Edward Taylor. 1094 pages, $9.75

Problems in THE ORIGINS AND DEVELOPMENT OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE

by JOHN ALGEO and THOMAS PYLES,
University of Florida

A carefully planned workbook that follows the organization of Professor Pyles's book, but can be adapted for use with any other text in the history of the English language. Each chapter begins with a list of terms and questions on the content from the Pyles text. The rest of the chapter is devoted to a variety of problems, numerous and challenging, which include work with the Oxford English Dictionary, practice in linguistic techniques, and exercises on the Old, Middle, and Early Modern English texts reproduced in the workbook. Paperbound. 256 pages, $2.95 (probable). Publication: May

MAJOR WRITERS OF AMERICA

Under the General Editorship of PERRY MILLER

Combining the best features of the two dominant types of American literature courses—concentration and selectivity where separate books are used; continuity and development where a sweeping chronological survey is required—this highly regarded anthology presents extensive and representative selections from the works of 28 pre-eminent writers. Edited and introduced by 23 noted scholars. Volume I: 1131 pages; Volume II: 925 pages. $7.25 each.

MAJOR BRITISH WRITERS: Enlarged Edition

Under the General Editorship of G. B. HARRISON

With introductions written by distinguished scholars, substantial annotations, and a discriminating selection of recommended readings, this two-volume anthology offers representative portions from the major works of 22 masters, from Chaucer to Eliot. Volume I: 991 pages; Volume II: 880 pages. $7.25 each.

GOLDENTREE BIBLIOGRAPHIES

To appear Spring 1966

Goldentree Bibliographies, under the series editorship of O. B. HARDISON, JR., provide graduate and advanced undergraduate students with a convenient guide to scholarship on major literary figures, genres, and periods. Each bibliography contains from 1000 to 2000 numbered items, compiled by a recognized authority in the field. Emphasis is on work published in the twentieth century, and listings are arranged topically. An author index and extra space for call numbers and entries are provided. The volumes will be priced at approximately $1.25. The first titles scheduled in the series are listed below.

NEW ENGLISH TEXTS

PRACTICAL RHETORIC

O. B. HARDISON, JR., University of North Carolina. This brief handbook of rhetoric emphasizes, as its title suggests, the practice rather than the theory of effective writing. Assuming the student to have a basic command of English grammar, the text moves from rhetorical fundamentals to specialized techniques of writing. Illustrations and exercises throughout are designed to build self-conscious habits in composing and editing. 350 pp., paper, $2.95 (tent.)

A PROGRAM FOR EFFECTIVE WRITING

JAMES M. REED, JR., and ROBERT L. SHURTER, Case Institute of Technology. Through this programmed text, the student is led to make decisions about organization, structure, and effective writing. Designed for freshman writing courses, the text may be used either in class or as homework coordinated with class instruction. 252 pp., paper, $4.50 (tent.)

WORDS IN CONTEXT: A Vocabulary Builder, 2nd ed.

A. A. DeVITIS and J. R. WARNER, both of Purdue University. Highly successful in its first edition, this book presents college level vocabulary in the context of modern essays rather than word lists. The second edition contains additional essays and several challenging new diagnostic tests. 360 pp., paper, $2.95 (tent.)

UNIFIED ENGLISH COMPOSITION, 4th ed.

GERALD D. SANDERS, formerly of Eastern Michigan University; HOOVER H. JORDAN, Eastern Michigan University; and WALLACE H. MAGOON, Ball State Teacher's College. Economically combining complete materials for freshman composition under one cover, this major text includes the content of grammar, rhetoric, and reader, expertly organized and integrated for either a semester's or a year's work. The fourth edition features a more detailed table of contents and many new selections. An accompanying workbook is available only as a separate publication. 560 pp., double column, $5.95 (tent.)

SPELLING BY PRINCIPLES: A Programed Text

GENEVIEVE LOVE SMITH, Research Director of Programed Instruction, Point Park Junior College. Correct spelling is seldom an explicit objective in the freshman English syllabus; yet departments other than English assume that somehow the student learns to spell accurately in freshman English. This programed text is a reliable solution to the problem, for it gives concentrated attention to spelling without any commitment of classroom time. 158 pp., 634 frames, paper, $2.80 (tent.)

AN APPROACH TO LITERATURE, 4th ed.

Edited by CLEANTH BROOKS, Yale University; JOHN T. PURSER, Southeastern Louisiana College; and ROBERT PENN WARREN, Yale University. The fourth edition of this well-known text, which stresses content as well as form, offers greater flexibility in teaching and features substantial changes in both the selections and editorial framework. 917 pp., double column, $6.95

NEW BOOKS IN FRENCH, GERMAN

BILLET CIRCULAIRE

PAUL LANGELLIER, Adelphi University; and ALICE LANGELLIER. A reader teaching language and civilization, this text presents aspects of both old and contemporary France, touching upon history, geography, art and culture. Carefully selected areas of France serve as a background for narratives and dialogue. 200 pp., illus., paper, $2.50 (tent.)

PRÉCIS DE CIVILISATION FRANÇAISE

MINNIE M. MILLER, Kansas State Teachers College; J. R. NIELSON, Government Service; and JEAN LEBLON, Hollins College. These précis and objective tests, written in French, deal with the country and people of France, French literature and art, and modern France. Each section ends with 100 questions in French. 172 pp., illus., paper, $1.95

TROIS NOUVELLES DE GEORGES SIMENON

Edited by FRANK W. LINDSAY, Russell Sage College; and ANTHONY M. NAZZARO, Skidmore College. These three nouvelles, MAIGRET ET L'INSPECTEUR MALGRACIEUX, LA PIPE DE MAIGRET, and SOUS PEINE DE MORT, reveal Simenon's superb craftsmanship and his mastery of psychological realism. 228 pp., illus., paper, $2.40

CONVERSATIONAL AND CULTURAL FRENCH

JOSEPH PALMERI, University of Wisconsin. This first-year text stresses a conversational approach, combined with a thorough treatment of grammatical principles. Lessons and exercises sparkle with variety while audiotapes, which will accompany the text, reinforce vocabulary and correct pronunciation. April. 400 pp., illus., $5.50 (tent.)

AUSWAHL DEUTSCHER ESSAYS: VON SCHOPENHAUER BIS FRISCH

Edited by DANIEL COOGAN, Brooklyn College; and EDMUND KURZ, Queens College. Outstanding German authors from 1850-1965 are represented in this new collection of distinguished writings in the field of literature, music, fine arts, politics, history, natural science, philosophy, theology, sociology, and psychology. The diverse selections have been chosen for stylistic eminence. With questions and vocabulary. 240 pp., illus., paper, $3.25 (tent.)

MODERNES DEUTSCH: Eine Wiederholung der Grammatik mit modernen Autoren, 2nd Edition

ERNA KRITSCH, Douglass College, Rutgers University. Written entirely in German for the second-year student, this book strengthens both vocabulary and grammar through the study of nonsimplified passages from the works of modern German authors. 260 pp., illus., paper, $2.95

ITALIAN, PORTUGUESE, and SPANISH

MENSCH UND ZEIT

Edited by ANNA OTTEN, Antioch College. Six plays of exceptional merit, chosen for simplicity of language and style, are presented in this new anthology for intermediate and late first year German. Questions, vocabulary, and drills accompany the plays. Authors include Aichinger, von der Vring, von Hoerschelmann, Eich, Hildesheimer, Dürrenmatt. May. 200 pp., illus., paper, $2.95 (tent.)

RACCONTI DEL NOVECENTO: FORTI E DEBOLI

Edited by ILENE OLKEN, University of Michigan. This text—an anthology of twentieth-century Italian short stories—has a twofold purpose: to introduce students to the contemporary Italian short story and novella; and to supply needed reading material at the second-year university level. Authors of earlier decades are represented, as well as younger writers who are currently establishing themselves. March. 220 pp., paper, $3.50 (tent.)

CONTOS DO BRASIL

D. LEE HAMILTON, Director, Language Development Branch, U.S. Office of Education; and NED CAREY FAHS, Director, Latin American Division, W. K. Kellogg Foundation. These sixteen short stories, designed to help the student learn about the language and the people of Brazil, are arranged according to difficulty. 332 pp., paper, $3.95

TEATRO BRASILEIRO CONTEMPORÂNEO

Edited by WILSON MARTINS, New York University; and SEYMOUR MENTON, University of California, Irvine. This book contains five modern plays by Brazilian playwrights, with introduction, notes, vocabulary, exercises and drills. A basic text for intermediate students of Portuguese, it is also recommended for courses in the Brazilian theatre. March. 320 pp., paper, $4.95 (tent.)

José López Rubio: LA VENDA EN LOS OJOS

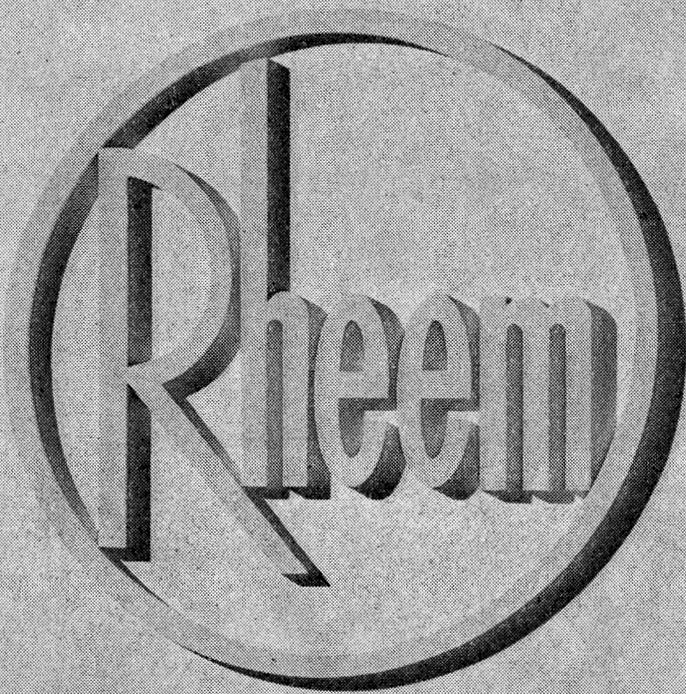

Edited by MARION P. HOLT, Queens College of the City of New York. One of the most appealing serious comedies of the Spanish stage, this play contains dialogue with allusions and references to various aspects of modern Spanish life. Exercises emphasize these aspects rather than the mere factual events of the plot. A complete vocabulary is provided as well as notes to clarify difficult constructions. April. 200 pp., paper, $2.20 (tent.)

Juan Antonio de Zunzunegui: CUENTOS Y PATRAÑAS

Edited by REX E. BALLINGER, Southwest Missouri State College. These four "patrañas" (tall tales) are filled with humor and lively imagination. The text is adapted for use in the last weeks of second-year Spanish study and beyond. It includes an introduction, bibliography, end-vocabulary, and questionnaires to stimulate the student to probe more deeply into the works. March. 224 pp., paper, $2.35 (tent.)

Contemporary Authors

A BIO-BIBLIOGRAPHICAL GUIDE TO CURRENT AUTHORS AND THEIR WORKS

CA is a unique new concept in biographical reference, being the largest single source of concise, accurate, detailed, and uniformly-organized author information compiled in this century.

- Two Semiannual Volumes
- 4,000 Sketches Annually
- No Duplication Among Volumes
- Entire Series in Print
- Annual Subscription $25.00

Contemporary Authors is a must reference for every librarian, collector, dealer, scholar, teacher, or student concerned with books and their authors.

A basic reference tool which belongs in all libraries.—Choice. Recommended for all libraries.—Subscription Books Bulletin.

BOOK REVIEW INDEX

For less than seven cents a day, librarians who have used this new reference tool for a year find it has saved them an untold number of hours, helped them locate more complete information, and enables them to make better-informed buying decisions.

BRI covers more than three times as many general, specialized, and scholarly periodicals as any comparable service. A few of the publications from which all reviews—not just selected reviews—are being indexed are The Saturday Review, Library Journal, Choice, Time, Virginia Kirkus Service, The Booklist, Harper's, Horn Book, Times Literary Supplement (London), and The New York Times.

Annual subscriptions covering twelve issues, including four quarterly cumulations, and citations of an estimated 23,000 titles and 40,000 reviews are $24.00—$2.00 a month that ends forever the need to make time-consuming searches for review information.

Historic Biographical Reference Works Now Available From Gale

Under the over-all title of Author Biography Series, Gale is reissuing a number of first-rate author reference works which have long been out of print. Initially, the series will include seven titles covering 100,000 authors active from 500 A.D. to the early 1900's and a master index to these volumes and to biographic data on an additional 50,000 twentieth-century writers listed in publications such as the company's own Contemporary Authors.

300-Year Paper Used for ABS

To assure that these basic works will be available for many generations to come, an acid-free paper of the permanent/durable type, commonly known as "300-year" paper, has been selected for use in all volumes in the series.

First Four Titles Ready

These titles, providing biographical-critical sketches on 91,000 authors from earliest times through the late 1800's, are now ready:

Critical Dictionary of English Literature and British and American Authors. By S. Austin Allibone, published 1858-1871 by J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia. Three volumes, A-Z, 3,140 pages, embracing 46,000 biographical-critical entries concerning authors from the earliest accounts to the latter half of the nineteenth century. Three volumes. $84.00

Supplement to Allibone's Critical Dictionary of English Literature and British and American Authors. By John Foster Kirk, published in 1891 by J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia. Two volumes, A-Z, 1,562 pages, 37,000 entries. Same format as above volumes, but distinctive for concentration on authors active 1850-1888. (Allibone's A-L volume closed in the mid-1850's). Two volumes $43.00

Biographical Dictionary and Synopsis of Books Ancient and Modern. Volume 1: Biographical Dictionary of Authors. Edited by Charles Dudley Warner, published by The Werner Company, Akron, Ohio, 1902. 619 pages; about 7,000 entries. Covers important figures in world literature throughout the ages. $17.00

Cyclopedia of American Literature, Embracing Personal and Critical Notices of Authors and Selections from Their Writings. By Evert Augustus Duyckinck and George Long Duyckinck. Revised edition of 1875, incorporating the original edition of 1856 and the Supplement of 1866; with additional material, including new entries, to date of issue by M. Laird Simons. Published by T. Elwood Zell, Philadelphia. 2,044 pages; more than 900 biographical entries. Completely indexed. Covers American literature from the earliest time to the time of publication, giving, in addition to biographical information, typical selections from the authors' works, and, in many cases, portraits, autographs, etc. Two volumes $43.00

Other Books Being Reprinted

Bibliophile Library of Literature, Art, and Rare Manuscripts. Volumes 29 and 30 of The Bibliophile Dictionary. Published by The International Bibliophile Society, New York and London, 1904. 767 pages; more than 3,000 entries. Topical and general indexes. Contains biographical sketches of important authors up to the twentieth century. Two volumes in one $22.00

Biographical Dictionary of the Living Authors of Great Britain and Ireland; Comprising Literary Memoirs and Anecdotes of Their Lives . . . Printed in London for Henry Colburn, 1816. 449 pages; approximately 6,300 biobibliographical entries. $17.00

Index Volume Also Being Prepared

A particularly valuable feature of the series will be a brand-new index:

Author Biography Master Index. Being compiled by Gale the index will bring together in a single alphabet about 100,000 references to individual authors in all the volumes above, plus 50,000 references to such other standard works as Contemporary Authors, Twentieth Century Authors, and Who Was Who. $28.00

11 Volumes—Nearly 9,000 pages—$254.00

MADAME BOVARY and the Critics:

A Collection of Essays

B. F. Bart, Editor

Essays by Douglas W. Alden, Eric Auerbach, B. F. Bart, Margaret Gilman, Henry James, John C. Lapp, Harry Levin, Walter Pater, Margaret Tillett, Martin Turnell.

Chosen for their pertinence, vigor, and clarity, the dozen essays collected here provide a sampling from the vast storehouse of Flaubert criticism and a guide to the many ways of reading Flaubert's masterpiece.

$2.25 paper, $6.00 cloth

THE LITERARY ORIGINS OF SURREALISM:

A New Mysticism in French Poetry

Anna Balakian

This first-rate study explores the sources of the poetry of Breton, Aragon, Éluard, and a number of other surrealists and offers a close and careful analysis of the brilliant experiments of Lautréamont, Rimbaud, Mallarmé, Apollinaire, and the Dadaists.

$1.95 paper, $5.00 cloth

BAUDELAIRE

Marcel A. Ruff

Translated by Agnes Kertesz

Patiently separating fact from legend, Marcel Ruff combines biography and literary criticism in a study of the giant of nineteenth-century French verse. The result is a concise and judicious account of the demon-haunted dandy whose art transformed the entire course of French poetry.
