

Tables

1.1 Conceptualization and measurement of key variables	page 11
1.1 Opposition parties and democratic reform	30
1.2 Scoring regime outcomes in South America during the early twentieth century	40
2.1 Comparing databases on democracy in South America before 1930	54
2.2 Suffrage restrictions and voter turnout in South America in the nineteenth century	57
2.3 Competition in presidential elections in South America during the nineteenth century	64
2.4 Ephemeral democratization in nineteenth-century South America	67
2.5 Presidential elections and democracy in South America, 1900–1929	70
3.1 A typology of revolts based on the origins of their leaders	78
3.2 Indicators of military strength and professionalization in South America, 1870–1929	90
3.3 The varying stability of regimes in South America, 1870–1929	91
3.4 Determinants of outsider revolts in South America, 1830–1929	96
4.1 Major political parties in South America, 1870–1930	106
4.2 Liberal and conservative strength in South America, 1700–1850	116
4.3 Geographic fragmentation in South America circa 1900	119
5.1 Major revolts in Chile, 1830–1929	125
5.2 Presidential and legislative elections in Chile, 1831–1924	138
5.3 Major revolts in Uruguay, 1830–1929	150
5.4 Presidential and legislative elections in Uruguay, 1900–1929	160
6.1 Major revolts in Argentina, 1852–1929	178
6.2 Presidential elections in Argentina, 1854–1928	196
6.3 Major revolts in Colombia, 1830–1929	201

6.4	Presidential elections in Colombia, 1819–1930	213
7.1	Major revolts in Venezuela, 1830–1930	228
7.2	Major revolts in Peru, 1830–1929	237
7.3	Major revolts in Brazil, 1830–1929	250
8.1	Major revolts in Bolivia, 1830–1929	265
8.2	Major revolts in Ecuador, 1830–1930	280
8.3	Major revolts in Paraguay, 1830–1929	292
C.1	Democracy in South America, post-1929	306